Editorial

When I first took over editing this magazine, I asked a question: What if, instead of producing a hard copy magazine, we went to digital? 100% of respondents came to the same conclusion. They both wanted the hard copy through the letter box every two months. So (democracy at work) that's what I've done for my first couple of years as editor. Now I'm asking the same question again.

There are a small number of members who currently get a digital copy of Compass Points. However, well over 100 copies are still printed and distributed. I try to chase people down at the first event after printing and hand them a copy; I distribute them at school and have a network at NGHS who help me to pass them on there; I even jog to any members with my (very limited) training locale and stick them in their letter boxes, Despite this many magazines still go out by post at a cost to the club.

It's not much of a cost but if your e-mail won't reject a 5-6 megabyte pdf file, I can send it to your digital mailbox. The advantage is that the photos are in colour; the disadvantage is you have to either print it yourself or read it on a screen. If you would like to get Compass Points sent to your e-mail instead of your door, then send an e-mail saying so to editor@hborienteering.com and I'll put you on a mailing list. If you still want hard copy, do nothing and it will keep coming.

Another issue I wish to raise is the final duty of event setters. If you go to the "Course Setters' Guidelines" on the web page (http://www.hborienteering.com/club/resources/Course_setters_checklist.pdf) you will find this quote near the bottom of page 3: "As setter for the day please write an event report for "Compass Points". Send it to the Newsletter editor after the event."

I realise that after all the work you've put in, after the day has gone smoothly (or not so smoothly), the last thing you want to do is sit down and type a report for me. However, I know that a lot of members look forward to them. Indeed, without them, I begin to question the purpose of having a magazine. So much else is on the website but the magazine is where we get to read little about the thought processes behind the events we just ran (or in my case stumbled about) and the people we see but don't always chat with. Every event has its own little moments that are worth sharing and a few hundred words sent to me completes your final duty. And then (as right now) I can complete mine.

Summer Series 1 Whitmore Park

I have run plenty of orienteering courses in my time in this sport but when I saw my name on the fixtures list I was absolutely clueless. I had barely even thought about setting my own course and I will sadly admit that I don't even think I had ever heard of Condes. But there is a first time for everything and it was exciting to be setting a course for the first time.

I have to admit that at times I definitely felt hard done by with the map I was given, as did some of you when you ran the course, but I did my best with what I had. After having a bit of a look around the area Dave added a few things to the map for me and even invented a new symbol for the rugby posts in the park. Once I got around to drafting the actual course I had a little help getting my head around Condes and ended up with the actual thing on paper. I was extremely lucky to have Kate as my vetter as her experience made up for my lack of it.

As has happened before, we had a little trouble attaching the caravan to the Morrison van but a jack and a nice ex-club member later, we were on our way.

The fact that junior camp, which I was a part of, was on that week, meant that everyone participating came and ran my course. This meant if someone thought something was set wrong I wouldn't hear the end of it. The alleyways on the map confused many as they were mapped as wider than the road but were actually very easy to miss causing many to run far further than they should have.

Overall the evening turned out successfully, despite one angry local, and I hope everyone enjoyed the course.

Summer Series 2 Havelock North Village

When I offered to set Havelock Village for Duncan four days out, I didn't know what I had let myself in for. I know the area, so it would be just as easy as putting some controls on a map in Condes, going and looking at the sites then putting the controls out. That's what I thought anyway.

That's actually pretty much what I did. It took some rearranging, and 3 courses later, I had the best shape possible, including some variations (first leg to another control, not the pivot) and a longer finish leg with added controls. I also wanted to make the most of the 'blocks', so I set each loop in a block. I incorporated a bit of route choice into every leg, so hopefully people got a little confused.

The preparation was not too bad but we put the controls out late, so we had people wanting to start before we were ready. People seemed to be happy after the course.

We had a bit of a problem in which a control got pinched; we had nothing to fear though, as Constable Duncan surely chased down the skater at the skateboard bowl. The winning times were about where I wanted them to be with Scott McDonald running the 3.3km course in 19:26.

Thanks to all who helped, especially Duncan for being a patient Vetter and Gaye and Robbie Love on caravan duty.

Summer Series 3 Frimley Park

Hope you've recovered from our event. We always meant to make it different but sorry if we killed you in the process.

Our first step was to design some preliminary courses on Condes, which quickly began to take shape. After some modifications, we sent them to our vetter and received largely positive feedback. Along with Scott we ventured to the metropolitan centre of Frimley and spent some time checking out course dynamics and control placement at the event location.

Unfortunately, the first thing that hit us was that there were large amounts of pipe laying in Frimley Park. Fortunately, we were able to edit and adapt our courses to the new restrictions as well as making some other changes. Unfortunately the map we had been given was severely out dated. Fortunately Duncan let us use his new sprint map. Thanks Duncan.

Once courses were finalised and re-vetted we sent them off and we were sweet. Or maybe not. Unfortunately, there was, in fact, new construction in Lindisfarne that we didn't discover until three days before our event. Fortunately we were able to retrieve the maps from Dave Fisher and make a new out of bounds area on the maps.

On the day it rained but luckily cleared in time for the event and the maps had been kindly bagged by Mum and Rob McDonald. (Most of them had Natalie or Lawrence de Burgh written on them.) The event went smoothly from then on. Thanks to everyone who helped on the day esp. Mum, Dad and the McDonalds. Thank you very much Scott for the greatly helpful and constructive vetting that you gave us. We couldn't have asked for better. Thanks to everyone who came along.

Summer Series 4 The Westside

After the confusion of swapping courses, then swapping courses again, then swapping dates, I finally got on track with setting up my course (a bit like my exam preparation process). Being my first course setting experience I really enjoyed using Condes, it was nothing like Tetris. My vetter and I unwittingly made this course very confusing for beginners. The mix of street and electronic controls really led people astray.

One aspect of planning the course that I overlooked was the fact that you cannot run through private property. My first attempt at creating the course was calculated by Dave Fisher at 6.8 kms – a wee bit long. Going back to the drawing board gave us a much fairer distance. A few complaints came in from those with their last loop through Hastings Intermediate School. It was longer than it probably should have been. My vetter unfortunately had not pointed that out – thank you Grant Edmonds for that one.

Once again there was a really good turnout for the summer series. This is always a good round of events for the start of a new year. Big thanks to Roger Mulway who organised access to the schools and council, Jane Herries for running the caravan and Pam Morrison for steering us straight on Condes and running the computer as well as organising us boys. Also to Dave Fisher for ensuring we didn't over do it and sorting the maps. Thanks to Dad, my vetter, for sitting, waiting and watching.

RAMBLING ON...

Don't we all love ELECTRIC FENCES?

We arrive at the START to be advised by the Starter that to the best of their knowledge the electric fences are off. They do it with a straight face, but do we believe them? It probably means they have asked the land owner if the fences could be turned off, and they have agreed.

Well I don't know about you but I have to check the first fence that I arrive at. Course you townies know that the electric fences are the ones with insulators at the battens and posts. If you see staples you know they are not electric fences.

So...is it on or off? Take a piece of grass, hold it firmly at each end and lay it across the wire with some downward pressure...if it is on you will feel a pulse in your fingers. If there appears to be nothing then slowly slide one end of the grass nearer to the wire up to the point where one pair of fingers are almost touching the wire...still nothing? Try kneeling on the ground with one knee...this really improves the electricity's chance to make contact with the earth which is what it is wanting to do all the time. You are just a means to an end. By wearing shoes you are mostly insulated from the ground and hence you only get tickles through your fingers. If there are any barefoot runners out there I suggest you use a very long piece of grass.

Another finesse is to lick your fingers before holding the grass.

Finally ...just to catch you out, there is the isolated electric fence which is powered by a solar panel. A pound to a pinch of salt that one WILL be on.

What to do if the power is on? I know of folk with short legs who have to walk the fence to find a gate! That is so unfair. I guess the elites can put a hand on a post and vault it. There are different types of fence as well.

The single wire immediately above the conventional fence is a big problem, as is the outrigger wire. You could look for gaps between the ordinary wires to wriggle your way through. Most orienteers are slim enough to consider this. Look along the fence, sometimes the electric wire is much higher than the main fence, particularly at a stream or river crossing.

For all electric fence -on or off- you must not stand on the wires because your weight will break the insulators. The farmer will be very angry. But by following Rule No.1 in orienteering [plastic bag] you can use your map ... lay it across the top wire midway between posts, force it downwards [these wires usually have a slackness] possibly enabling you to cock your leg over and you're away. Failing the plastic bag use your hat.

Have you ever noticed that when receiving a considerable electric shock that it clears the brain? Perhaps by holding the wire we could harness this effect when faced with a difficult route choice? Now I only learnt this a week ago from our daughter [never too old to learn] that if choosing to test an electric fence by using the hand [some folk do!] then use the back of the fingers. By using the inside of the hand there is a reaction to clench the wire and not let go! Children ask your parents before you try this.

WOW!!! I know somebody who will remember 29th February 2012.

For anybody who missed the Hawke's Bay Today, Thursday 1st March page A3, CONGRATULATIONS to Andrew Bott and Tania Campbell on their engagement.

I can't help wondering what happened to the kayak? Did it suddenly start going round in circles, develop a huge burst of speed or perhaps lose its paddler?

Tania must be quite a lady...you have to be fast to catch Andrew.

I'm hoping Chris will have time to write an item for this edition which has relevance to this story.

Many years ago Max McEwen, Paul Steeds and I wanted to go to an OY together. The venue had been scheduled for Tangoio but two of us had been away that week and were out of touch. Max arranged transport but on arriving at Whirinaki with absolutely nobody there the penny dropped, and we headed across country to the Slump. One of us suddenly remembered that that was the new venue. Not many mobile phones in those days.

Max, who had been a WW11 pilot with the Australian Air Force, didn't say much until we reached the right place with a red and white caravan and lots of fit looking people running around, at which point he apologised for the mistake and said "I have to tell you this happened every day in the War!"

I want to encourage people to contribute to this column but have found that I prefer you to write it. You are close to the story whereas I'm sometimes getting it third hand.

Also I'm not in touch with a large part of the current membership and therefore do not know the latest chat. All you have to do is send it to the Editor under 'Rambling on...' if it is too short to be an article of its own.

Summer Series 6 The Mission

What a shock! They had put me down to set a course before the workshop on “Course Setting”! Mild panic set in. What did I know about setting courses?

The wise men of the Club say go to the website – there are great resources there. I found all that I required, read the guidelines, got an old map and started pondering on how a loop and white courses could fit. Then a quick visit with daughter Kelly to advise me (make sure YOU tell the land owner first!).

It looked quite feasible. Condes was the next challenge. Magic Dave Fisher provided the details and a map and a question about whether it was a real course or just a Summer Series! With a bit of playing and reading guidelines followed by help from Super Vetter, John Craven, the courses were drawn.

Then a visit to check the details resulted in a slightly wet map and improvements to the courses. Final tweaks to the maps were bounced back and forth between Dave, John and I until the “final” map was printed by Copy Plus and the day had arrived.

Brimming with excitement John and I met onsite to put out the controls, set up the caravan and put up road signs etc. Then, after a quick snack and coffee, we were delighted to see the Anderson family arrive to assist in the caravan followed by a wave of keen orienteers, queuing up to test themselves on our courses. Crikey, where was the registration computer?

We didn't need to panic – Pam the Reliable turned up in time followed closely by Techo Philip. We needed to get the maps ready then off went the first lot closely pursued by the next. Finally, just after the Edmonds arrived (from Rowe Road!?) the last starter started.

The feedback was positive and we were feeling good about our efforts as we set about dismantling the gear and collecting controls. The last road signs were gathered as we went past the Mission gates (some keen orienteers went to the main gate!). The caravan slotted neatly into the shed at Pernel's and home.

Setting this course was great fun, taught me more about orienteering and I highly recommend doing it.

At least one of these results must be from the Championship level (i.e. a school entering all its competitors in the Standard level will be able to count only two results). In the relay, only the highest positioned team from any school in each age class will count.

Mulvay's Misadventures

(An occasional series)

1. As landowner liaison, our hero (whom we shall refer to by the cunning pseudonym Mulvay to protect his identity) has to liaise with owners of the land on which we race. On the way to his own event, Mulvay was stopped by the land owner of the property known as The Mission. "What are you up to?" enquired the landowner. "I'm just checking out the terrain for my event," replied Mulvay. The landowner then asked, "Shouldn't you phone first?" Moral: Phone first.

2. Mulvay's a busy man. On the evening of Summer Series 4, he dashed home, threw on some sports gear and hustled his daughters into the car. Then he drove off to the event centre at Park Island. He figured he was more efficient than he first thought when he saw there was plenty of parking. Indeed, not even the caravan was parked. Out came his smart phone and a quick check of the website revealed that SS4 was at The Westside. Moral: Check the website before you go.

3. Mulvay saw his "friend" Chris and confessed his errors. Chris told EVERYONE! Moral: Never tell Chris Howell anything.

Aside from camp, some junior members have made the start of the year really busy for themselves. Some of note:

Devon Beckman is winner of the NZ Tri-Series in the U15 Men's age-group. Devon competed in triathalons in Christchurch, Taupo and Auckland to win this.

Robbie Love and Rebecca Matthews have both spent 10 days on board the Spirit of Adventure completing the trainees' course. What a wonderful way to start the school year.

Georgia Creagh had a close encounter with Jaws this summer. Confronted by a fish larger than her kayak, Georgia (who in her spare time potters around Gotham City in a cowl) stayed calm. She punched the shark on the nose with her paddle and cruised back to dry land, shaken but not stirred.

Jarrold Lobb

1. How long have you been involved in Orienteering?

For about 3 years.

2. How did you get involved with Orienteering?

While at Intermediate Geoff Morrison did a course for the School, and I enjoyed it and wanted to do more, so found out about Club events and started doing them.

3. What do you remember about your first event?

It was out Raukawa way and I remember it took a long time to get there! I did a white with my Mum and she always wanted to go the wrong way! I remember lots of steep hills and I think I got about 5th.

4. What courses do you usually run?

I have been running orange, but this year am going to have a go at doing red courses.

5. What do you enjoy about orienteering?

I enjoy getting out and doing exercise; running out in forests and in the country areas.

6. If we met you during the week, what would you be doing?

I would be at School (Havelock Nth High) during the week, and after School and in the weekends usually training for and playing the various sports I am involved in.

7. What (or who) are you targeting for 2012?

I'd like to do well at the red courses and get a good result for HB Champs and Secondary School Nationals. I'd also like to train for hockey and try to get back into the HB Reps.

1. How long have you been involved in orienteering?

Approximately 2 years.

2. How did you get involved with orienteering?

Laura started in her last year at Primary School and we went along to watch. One by one, we joined in. Orienteering is amazingly addictive!

3. What do you remember about your first event?

Laura was asked to make up the team for the inter-school relay event in her last year at Primary School. There was only one girls team competing; Laura was the last to run. The advice given to Laura was 'take your time – just make sure you don't mis-punch'!

4. What courses do you usually run?

Hannah, Laura, Kim – Yellow, moving to Orange

Rebecca – Orange, moving to Red – chasing Dad

Stephen – Red short & red medium – beginner on this course – hoping to improve.

5. What do you enjoy about orienteering?

Keeping fit. Orienteering is a great activity to do as a family, and keeps us competitive. We also love going to locations that we wouldn't normally get the opportunity to go to.

6. If we met you during the week, what would you be doing?

Running around like mad things! Work, school, pony ... We moved to Hawke's Bay for the more relaxed lifestyle ...

7. What (or who) are you targeting for 2012?

Not to break any bones ... too late! Hannah broke her wrist at the Mission Summer Series event the night before we wrote this.
