Nationals Report

A good number of club members competed at the NZOC hosted by the Northwest Club and many of the usual suspects (plus a few roughies) took their places on the podium. During my travels (alright, whilst scrounging through rubbish bins for extra protein) I found an unnamed diary that cast light on some of the shadier events. Published below are extracts. None of the names have been changed to protect the innocent because those guys deserve everything they get.

GOOD FRIDAY: - Sprint race at a new map, Kirstin. What a good map: school buildings jutting out at improbable angles, a steady downhill gradient and a couple of long legs down the road.

We were warned that the road on the eastern boundary of the map was quite busy and all through the event, despite being a public holiday, traffic thrummed along it at a good clip. Hamis tried to knock me over charging down the road as I walked to the start.

Fortunately, I saw him coming and was able to weave my way through the vehicles until he stopped chasing me.

There was a protest by one of the elites. Apparently his course was identical to the white. After a mad scramble by everyone to avoid being on the protest committee, nothing happened. This led to a flurry of polite fury on www.maptalk.co.nz.

There were eight podium finishes for the club:

Mitchell Jones	1st M10	Bayley Stephens-Ellison	1st M12A
Hamish Goodwin	1st M50A	Callum Herries	2nd M16A
Kate Morrison	2nd W21E	Duncan Morrison	3rd M20A
Hugh Forlong-Ford	3rd M45A	Derek Morrison	3rd M60A

SATURDAY: - Two words: steep and technical. Ok that was three words.

I absolutely nailed the model map – straight to every control. Unlike Derek, who walked right past the big box full of model maps labelled MODEL MAP START to the event centre and asked, “Did anyone see where the model maps were?”

I think I peaked too early. I managed to successfully punch control 7 twice and control 3 not at all, which was a blow. Then I belted round the rest of the course like a sloth on Xanax. As I pounded through the spectator control, Callum said, “He’s got a loong way to go.” I’m not sure he used enough vowels.

Jane and Gaye commenced a contest that future troubadours will compose ballads to honour.

Again, the club had some good results; in fact, it was our best day. Most notably, Amber won the Women’s Elite race and, therefore, a place on the cover of Compass Points:

Amber Morrison	1st W21E	Mitchell Jones	1st M10 Bayley
Stephens-Ellison	1st M12A	Callum Herries	1st M16A
Hamish Goodwin	1st M50A	Derek Morrison	1st M60A
Olivia Beckman	1st W14B	Sarah Davidson	1st W16-20B
Jane Herries	1st W21C	Gaye Evans-Love	2nd W21C
Catherine Howell	2nd W40AS	Caroline Howell	3rd W12A
Brianna Massie	3rd W16A

EASTER SUNDAY: - Typical Woodhill, I’m told.

The three stooges (Greg, Chris and the other one) spent most of the race chasing each other around. Two mispunched and Greg poked a finger in our eyes. I didn’t see anyone come to grief in the finish sprint though I’m told that there were some spectacular nose-dives accompanied by long slides through the sand.

Unfortunately a mistake, in the control descriptions of all things, lead to three races being invalidated (M35A, M21A and M20A). Fortunately, we only had one entrant in those grades; two if you count Tom but he was flying the Taupo flag. Unfortunately, Duncan was denied a bronze medal by the invalidation. Fortunately, it was corrected before the W21E race because we had a place-getter there too.

Unsurprisingly, the club results weren’t quite as good as the previous day:

Mitchell Jones	1st M10	Bayley Stephens-Ellison	1st M12A
Callum Herries	1st M16A	Hamish Goodwin	1st M50A
Caroline Howell	1st W12A	Olivia Beckman	1st W14B Jane
Herries	1st W21C	Gaye Evans-Love	2nd W21C
Derek Morrison	2nd M60A	Kate Morrison	2nd W21E Holly
Edmonds	2nd W18A	Sarah Davidson	2nd W16-20B
Robbie Love	3rd M16-20B

MONDAY: - The relay used the same map as yesterday only different.

No-one saw a hobbit but we were lead to believe that there were a number the other side of the out-of-bounds tape. What we did see was a bucket of sand labelled, "Cigarette butts in here only!" which in Woodhill should be rarer than hirsute-footed midgets with a gluttony disorder.

Before the race it was announced that Derek had calculated the winner of the inter-club challenge. It wasn't us.

Rolf hurriedly re-joined the club so that his team could be official; only no-one told the organisers so they were still listed as composite. That's just as well or they'd've joined the long list of HBOC mp.

Holly and leuan kept saying to me, "Check your numbers!" Every time I looked on my chest it said 273 -1; I don't know why I had to keep checking because it never changed. Apparently, Kate's number did vary. I started out as 272-3; then at the map change it became 273-3, before reverting to 272-3 at the download.

The club's only podium placing on the day was in the short re-lay where Vida Fox, Mitchell Jones and Bayley Stephens-Ellison finished 2nd, only 15 seconds behind the winners and three minutes ahead of the next team. Our best placing in the long relay was 6th for Duncan, Callum and Amber, under five minutes adrift of the winner.

I think we can all agree that whoever wrote that dairy was an idiot, albeit a stunningly attractive one. As a summary of the club's efforts it is woefully inadequate but it was free and you get what you pay for.

Congratulations to all the place-getters (except one) and especially to the winners. Hamish and Mitchell were our top two performers, both recording a hat-trick, while Bayley and Callum picked up a pair of A grade titles each. Those four were clearly the dominant competitors in their respective grades. Jane and Olivia also won two races while Derek, Caroline, Sarah D, Kate and Gaye each made multiple trips to the podium with the first three winning once apiece. Finally, Amber's run in the long was the club's only Elite title of the weekend.

Rowe Road

We got the club preview and found out I was down as setter for Rowe Rd. Having never actually set a full range of courses before or been to an event at Rowe Rd, I figured I was gonna be in for a real treat.

About five weeks out I arranged for the map file to be sent to me then sat down and tried to get to grips with Condes, working out a rough plan of attack. After several evenings of creating and deleting courses, sometimes on purpose and sometimes not, (Condes was giving me a hard time) I decided to contact my vetter for some advice. On checking the club website I discovered my vetter had disappeared. No problem, I'll phone Tui and find out who the replacement would be. Not good news, there's no replacement yet, they'll ring me when one is arranged. I plodded on and finally got a rough plan drawn up.

I tried to contact the land owner so I could go and scope out the terrain, as I only had one spare weekend left before the event, with no luck. I finally managed to get him on Sunday night, that's my spare weekend gone, and arranged to meet him the next night after work.

I arrived at the woolshed with the weather threatening but no rain and discussed with the owner his requirements and ours. I set off around the property checking my control sites, (and moving most of them). When I was at the furthest point from the car it started raining, not just any ordinary old rain but really p*^#ing down rain, great. I sheltered under a rock for a while but it didn't let up so in the end I had to just carry on and get wet, or wetter. I slipped over somewhere along the way and somehow got a hole in the map bag and before long my map was starting to disappear. I finally made it back to the car just on dark when it decided to stop raining.

As I still didn't have a vetter I decided I would seek advice from someone in the know, aka Geoff. I called at his house and got a few pointers on what I should be doing, what I shouldn't be and where to place my controls.

After arriving home I shifted all my controls again, finally it was starting to look organised, about half of it was anyway. The next day our computer arsed up, nothing, nothing at all. I took it to the shop and the bloke said 'yep, no problem, I'll have it ready tomorrow'. Tomorrow came and went and the next day and the next, still no computer. I did get a vetter though, Chris had stepped in so things were looking up, on that front anyway. I finally got the computer back on Saturday and managed to extricate my maps from where they'd disappeared to and get them sent to Chris to check out.

Monday before the event I discovered there was more than one land owner so managed to get hold of the other one and arranged to meet after work again. Met up and had a discussion about where I was planning to go, could I not go in that paddock please because those cattle are a bit scary. No problems I'll just shift those couple of controls again. I stopped at Chris's to do some final adjustments and it was all sorted, I think his computer is better than mine because he can make Condes do things that don't happen on mine, it's definitely not the operator.

We arranged to meet on Saturday morning at 10am, a weather bomb was predicted to pass through overnight so 10 o'clock would be fine. Saturday dawned fine and clear, no weather bomb, not even any rain overnight. I dragged the caravan down to the event centre in Middle Rd and we sorted the controls. I dropped Chris at the bottom end of the map on Rowe Rd then drove back and started to place my controls. That's about when the weather bomb hit, it started pouring down and blowing a howling gale. It was a struggle seeing where I was going and even just standing up was difficult. We got them all out and headed home for a hot shower.

The big day arrived and the weather had cleared somewhat. I rounded up the kids and we headed down early to get set up. Everything seemed to go to plan, we found where things were stored in the caravan and managed to get most of them into the right place. The rest of the day passed quite quickly. People showed up and went jogging off into the rain and wind. At the end of the day we packed up gathered the controls and returned the caravan and it was all over.

I would like to thank all those that helped out with the day especially Chris, without his help I would have never managed, some of my controls were so far out it just wasn't funny but he sorted them for me and gave me some excellent advice on course setting. Paula and Jarrod for manning the caravan and collecting controls, Brandon, Caitlin and Mitchell for getting up early to come with me to help set up the event centre and for collecting controls. And all those people who showed up and took part on the day, I hope you enjoyed yourselves. Paul Jones

Havelock North Schools Summer Series

I'm sure all of us think that, after orienteering for a few years, we knew all there was to know. How wrong I was. Not only was there Condes to get a handle of, but all the little things you don't really think about.

Harriet and I managed to pick a day to go and check control sites in torrential rain, and in my naivety decided a few controls needed wooden blocks. This turned out to be a decision I came to regret. After a few calls to my various associates, I was happy with the courses, and after a last minute start triangle change, sent them off for printing. Roger very kindly offered to pick up the caravan for us (as I had some towbar issues) and everything was set.

Rule no. 1. Always allow at least an extra hour than you think for putting controls out. It honestly seemed to take forever, even with three of us on the job. I had also overlooked that the wooden blocks were not in the caravan. After a quick trip to Geoff's house, we were ready (just).

Rule no.2. Avoid at all costs using wooden blocks! You can only carry about two at a time and they are really heavy AND they require more than one trip = waaaay further for you to go.

Starts were a bit frantic, but in the end we had a record number of people, and some really positive feedback, aside from a slight stray number that seemed to have wandered away from its circle – sorry guys. Again, it was all hands on deck to bring all the controls in.

I wish to say a huge thanks particularly to Kelly for helping with control collection, and Roger for his caravan-towbar knowledge, and to Harriet, Anne and Sarah Baxter who I could not have done without, and to Pam and Phillip, our techies. Thank you very much to everyone who came along and had a run around, I had heaps of fun and gained lots of experience while I was at it!

Tauroa Station

This was my first course setting job so it was always going to be a steep learning curve. No problem I thought, go out there find some interesting control areas then use the computer to place on a map some circles. If only it was that easy, after many site visits and hours in front of the computer you all got to run around Tauroa.

My Vetter Steve Armon was a very tolerant man who guided me through the process and did a great job of allowing me some scope and pulling me back where necessary. Thank you Steve it can't be easy following a newbie around for hours on end.

What I first noticed was when entering into discussions with the owner and walking around on your own it becomes obvious that being on a map is a privilege as this is their home. I even felt a bit guilty digging the hole for the toilet without asking.

Once the very kind Mr Fisher had given sign off and the maps were printed it was the long wait until the big day.

It was difficult to make this map technical so the idea was to give you all lovely views and a good training run before the upcoming NZ champs. My favourite course was the yellow which I hope was not too difficult for all that ran it.

On the day the stress levels drop when the only complaints are the distance or the course itself rather than being the first event that couldn't start because the setter forgot the ?.

The highlight of the exercise was spending time with my daughter Megan who was always there to keep me calm or do more work on the computer.

Tauroa ended at 5.30pm with dropping off the caravan and on reflection as on the TV advert—setting a course.... “it's going to be a big job.”

RAMBLING ON...

The recent amusing happenings relating to the changing of the clocks back to normal time, reminded me of the first event I was asked to set for our club.

We only had veters for the OY events then, so an individual was chosen to set the courses for club events based on them having roughly a years experience in the sport, and with the aid of two well worn foolscap [A4] sheets of instructions.

The club held a social the Saturday evening before 'my' event... probably celebrating daylight saving, but suffice to say a fair amount of alcohol was consumed and I would have been one of the first to leave because I had to be up very early the following morning. Remembering to change the clocks of course

Our three children were helping me and we got away on time with the caravan in tow. The venue was Te Mata Park, as it often was over thirty years ago. We worked like demons setting everything up, including putting out all the controls. No...not the buckets.

The caravan was everything then...take your money, Start, Finish, Results, First Aid, Protests, helping new people...

I was responsible for putting out all the controls and as I moved around the Park, up and down, up and down, I'm looking at my watch and thinking we will never be ready by 10.30am. Not a dogs show. But we were!

I arrived back at the van almost drowning in a pool of sweat to find the kids had everything ready and the time was 10.29am!

Collapsing into a chair I savoured the moment ... it was beautiful up there...no wind, the sun was shining, and quiet, so quiet.

We waited, and waited for our first arrival. And waited some more, had a cup of tea with something to eat as you do round about eleven 'o clock. Still no body came.

It was just before 11.30am that the first people arrived! Now I have been stringing you along but it was nothing to do with the changing of the clocks. I put it down to the late night before and the effect of the alcohol. Just a coincidence.

Whatever, everything went well, controls all in the right place even if they were sort of hidden as all first timers are tempted to do.

Everything that is except the timing [can't get away from clocks can I?]....it was the club's President who discovered that one of our sons was writing the finish times to the minute. He wasn't bothering with the seconds!

Raise your glasses folks to ...wait for it...DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Talking to Ken Holst about his recent holiday overseas, and he was commenting on how tired he was of being pestered by the locals to part with his money all the time.

About an hour later I'm asking him to buy some of my wife's passion fruit pulp. Only $3.00! He didn't even haggle!

☺

Don't let Peter Hill get anywhere near your orienteering shoes...he 'borrowed' mine at the last event...leaving me to use his, or whatever I had! He didn't clean them either! Stewart

Maraetotara (OY1)

I was informed just before my first survey that I could only use the west side of the map. This steered me to a good start area. Nice pleasant basin good parking start and finish in the same place. just start them over the rise, plunge them down a steep hill, exhaust them all climbing back onto the plateau where they'd all get lost run around a bit and eventually come back. Of course it wasn't as simple as that and I spent too much enjoyable time figuring out what rock was not.

Pam pointed out that my orange, yellow and white were not right, so I improved them a bit and she in turn improved them a bit more. I wanted to run the red long and medium along the cliff but the owner Whooly Thin had long grass and added tracks so we altered both courses to avoid all this. All in all the red courses kept their basic shape and the others looked very good.

I would like to add here that coming back to orienteering after some years is like stepping out of a time machine ,especially Condes [ I was challenged there, thanks Dave Fisher] and the computerized sport id ized [whatever] control system. The biggest difference though is lots and lots of people.

Speaking about going back in time or is it forward in time? I don't know this day light saving [or is it spending] is all too confusing for some people. The 1st April fool arrived soon after me [he blamed his wife] and then dug the dunny to spend time. The other of note thought she was running late but arrived early, so she ran early and uncharacteristically ran late. Competitor of the day was Clinton Sim with baby in backpack running [uphill] red long 1.35.

Big thanks to Pamela for helping with the course setting and getting it all to run smoothly. Thanks to all who turned up to compete and those that set up, signed up, picked up and packed up.
Peter Hill

North Island Schools

Setters report – Individual Champs, 20th April

Well, seriously, the event nearly didn't happen. Day before the NISSC Indiv. Champs, one dead cattle beast, a mob of stressed and panicky cattle, and an even more stressed farm manager who was on the brink of pulling the plug on the event.

Luckily that didn't happen but it was a real reminder of how dependent we are on land owner goodwill and cooperation – at the end of the day it's their land and their call.

Setting courses for the event went reasonably smoothly. We sorted out which part of the map to use pretty early on, basically the same as 2011 Nat. relays but extended northwards. The event centre chose itself, staying down by the road avoided the worry of a slippery track for the caravan and vehicles if it was wet.

It's not a difficult map to set courses on but you want to try and make them good ones. For the longer courses I wanted a mixture of shorter legs in the rock detail and some longer legs to test runners' cross country navigation skills. Hamish and I went for a run around the Red courses and I thought I had the course distances about right but was proved wrong on the day, most were a bit short – the kids motored around quicker than I thought they would!

I was keen on the idea of a spectator control with a radio link; it's good to keep every one at the event centre up to date and creates a lot of atmosphere. Thanks for a great job on the commentary, Duncan M.

Setting ten courses for one event was a new challenge for me. You want to share some of the better legs among courses but need variation to split runners up, discourage following and keep them honest. Shared control sites have to be chosen more carefully, looking at likely entry and exit routes.

With some hiccups at the Nationals recently, with a course being invalidated and a protest on another, when our maps and control descriptions were printed I checked them all pretty thoroughly!

The day went really smoothly thanks to good weather and a small army of helpers. Can't name everyone but a few went beyond the call of duty – Jane Davidson (organised everything!), Alan Davidson and Roger Mulvay who came out the day before to set up the event centre, Dave Fisher whom I hassled endlessly about Condes and maps, Anne Baxter and Pamela Morrison for entries and SI, Philli Herries for the techie stuff. Also thanks to starters, call parkers and control collectors.

The most important person at any event is of course the Vetter/Controller. Thanks Hamish – an endless source of advice, guidance and attention to detail.

Mark Irwin

Park Island Summer Series

When I heard that I was setting a summer series course at Park Island I was very excited. As I live close by, it is one of my favourite places to go training and so I knew all of the secret nooks and crannies to hide some sneaky controls. As I was setting the course I came across some new places that even I hadn't discovered before which made setting this course even more fun.

Despite the absolutely horrific weather, the Park Island summer series event proved to be a roaring success. Plenty of keen orienteers braved the cold and the mud to run up and down the hills of Park Island and I am happy to report that there were no serious injuries from slipping on the concrete. Yay!

There was a fantastic turn out of different abilities and there were many newcomers who came along to give it a try. I designed the white course so that there was less climb for the beginners, as the hill was quite intricate and maybe a little bit difficult for some. So instead of running on the hills, I tried to make a course that was flat but also interesting so I made a loop around the big hill which still had some cool places for controls.

Park Island proved to be a difficult course to map as half of the map was playing fields and the other half was hill areas with cemeteries. I did my best to avoid route choices through the cemeteries by putting controls where there were a few obvious route choices to detour around these gravestones. I did my best to focus the courses around the two hills because let's face it, nobody likes to run over flat boring fields for half of their course. I doing so I tried to make the loop course as challenging as possible by having butterfly loops over each of the hills and the pivot away from the traditional playing field position and put it in between the two hills which was popular with all participants.

A big thanks to the Herries family for bringing the caravan over and helping me and to Pamela Morrison for her fantastic computer work. Thanks to Callum Herries for being a great vetter for the course also. And I better thank my family for helping me too.

Overall it was a fun experience and one that I thoroughly enjoyed setting. Holly Edmonds

Lena Stromberger and Jutta Stackelberg.

1. How long have you been involved in Orienteering?

Lena: I have been doing Orienteering for already quite a long time, I guess already 4 years.

Jutta: For about 3 months now.

2. How did you get involved with Orienteering?

Lena: I got involved with Orienteering through my school in Austria.

Jutta: My host family took me there to Havelock North one Wednesday in February.

3. What do you remember about your first event?

Lena: I can remember that the course was set around a lake and I ran together with another girl from my class. Jutta: We were waiting in the queue in front of the caravan for ages. I met Sarah Baxter from my form class. Me and my host mum were running in a team and we did pretty well and I thought that this was so much more fun than normal running.

4. What courses do you usually run?

Lena: Red courses

Jutta: I mostly did the yellow ones so far, but I already ran 2 orange ones and that's what I'm gonna run the next time

5. What do you enjoy about orienteering?

Lena: What I really like about Orienteering is that it is not only physical, but also mental. Moreover, I enjoy the fact that you see so many different parts of a country when you do Orienteering.

Jutta: The running and the scenery on the country ones and the feeling of success if you finally found a control after ages of searching

6. If we met you during the week, what would you be doing?

Lena: I would either be at school or doing any kind of sport.

Jutta: Either climbing, running or eating

7. What's your preferred post-race food?

Lena: I actually don't really mind, as long as it is nothing too fatty.

Jutta: Fish n chips or burger, which I never had before my exchange to New Zealand... pretty awesome (and not only after orienteering)

Tim and David Barclay

1. How long have you been involved in Orienteering?

This is season number 5 for the both of us.

2. How did you get involved with Orienteering?

We started when Tim became involved in the HNHS orienteering team.

3. What do you remember about your first event?

Summer series- loop course - in Taradale – I remember wondering why we had to take the long way round to get controls when there were some so close by.

4. What courses do you usually run?

Tim is now running red medium while I am stuck on orange – I need fences!

5. What do you enjoy about orienteering?

Tim enjoys getting it right occasionally and the school/team away trips. I enjoy the physical and mental challenge but also like getting into the out of the way locations that suburb dwellers don't normally get to see. Thanks landowners!

6. If we met you during the week, what would you be doing?

Tim is a Year 13 student at HNHS so hopefully he is either at school or doing his homework. I teach a year 5 class at Haumoana School.

7. What's your preferred post-race food?

Thanks to the fund raisers who provide Tim with juicies and me with an after event sausage!
