President's Report

Committee News

Grants :

As our treasurer, Stephan has been busy filling out paperwork and happily as a result the club now has a second laptop and printer for use at events. Thanks very much to the Infinity foundation for providing the money for this purchase.

We have just also received a grant from the Endeavour foundation to provide new start and finish banners.

Other Purchases :

Another 50 SI cards have been purchased. This will make it easier to run events without re-using SI cards. Brand new SI cards have also been set aside for sale at $65 each. See Stephan or ask at the caravan if you wish to purchase one.

You may also have experienced the new roomer toilet tent that Murray Harty recently had made following the demise of the old ones zip. (now repaired for when the need arises)

School events :

Jane Davidson put a tremendous effort into organising the North Island School Champs, the HB School Individuals and the HB School Relays this year. All events were very successful and the feedback following the North Island championships in particular was very positive. The visitors from out of Hawkes Bay particularly appreciated how well they were run. Jane has kindly offered to organise the New Zealand School Championships that will be held in Hawkes Bay next year. The Kaweka Mountain Marathon :

The HB Trail Running Club has decided to run an event similar to the Kaweka Challenge. This used to be organised by both the Orienteering and Heretaunga Tramping Clubs. Alan Berry, who is a member of both the previous organising clubs, kindly represented us to provide information to help them get the new event off the ground. The new event will take place on the 2nd February 2013. See www.thekaweka.co.nz for further information.

Oceania :

Some club members have already been very busy planning the events.

Smedley – (Oceania) Mark Irwin (Planner) and Hamish Goodwin (Controller)
The Slump (World Cup) – Derek Morrison (Planner) and Ken Holst (Controller)
The Slump (Public Race) – Murray Harty (Planner) and Ken Holst (Controller)

Mapping :

Bryan Teahan has been checking/ updating the Slump map in preparation of the World Cup raise.

Updates needed : EIT has had some building changes and will need a remap. Frimley Park will need remapping once the Pipe laying and redevelopment of the rose garden is complete.

Mission currently being milled and then will lie fallow for a while to weed control. Replanting currently planned with native and amenity species.

Some members of the mapping group visited a new forested area.

Committee for 2013 :

Some club members have already indicated they are willing to join the committee for 2013. This is pleasing and will take some welcome pressure off the doubled up jobs currently being done. If you would like to help out on either the club committee or be part of the mapping group please let one of the current committee know as new blood is vital to keep the club healthy. In particular Connor Alsleben will be moving on so a new youth representative would be very welcome (and I'm sure he will vouch for the quality of the suppers).

OY 4 — Fire Station

The weather was kind to us at the Firestation, which was fortunate as the excellent vantage point that was the start/finish was probably one of the most exposed points on the map.

Thanks to the awesome helpers who arrived before us on Sunday morning and

Red Kiwi Challenge

We won.

9 The Frank Smith Alternative

I really enjoyed the last section of the Tangoio OY that Rolf and David set last year that involved quite a fast but detailed downhill finish. Since then I had been itching to use the area again but this time as sprint that could make the most of the maze of huge boulders and tangled mountain bike tracks.

The opportunity to test the area came along when the Frank Smith Trophy event was postponed and we were left with a gaping hole in our program that meant the unthinkable would happen – 4 weeks with no orienteering !!! Not that I would particularly notice as orienteering matters seem to fill at least some part of my average day.

Roger quickly cleared it with Panpac that the area could be used and then the visits and planning begun in earnest. The initial thinking was to repeat the downhill sprint idea to keep it fast and flowing. Sounded good but in the meantime I needed to do some urgent map revision to get the detail I wanted for the sprint course. Lots of extra mountain bike tracks (great for white course use) along with newly exposed rock faces. Full credit must go to the original mappers as I spent quite a few hours wandering back and forth between rocks in a puzzled state only to decide in the end that yes they had definitely got it right (not a lot different to the way I seem to orienteer.)

While doing this I must have become acclimatised to wandering up and down the slopes of the area as it started to look all quite easy going. I therefore duly decided that the courses didn't need to be totally downhill. This meant the courses could quite happily head back up (and down) to the event centre. Doing so would save having a bigger walk to the start and/or walk back up the road from the finish as per last year's OY. The detail of the map allowed distances between control sites to be quite small which I hoped would take away the impression of a big slog up the hill as people zipped and zapped between them.

The area was free of blackberry but had a small glade of ongaonga at a control site I had set my heart on having between the two large boulders. An hour spent cutting it back gave me some new respect for Chris and Hamish's efforts to clear the stuff for last year's nationals (as well as a bit more respect for the ongaonga itself.)

It continued to rain and rain. The map area held up well with a combination of hard limestone and pine needles keeping the ground from turning into a slippery mud bath. However I continued to fret over the parking as the limited road verges became more and more slippery. On the Sunday the downhill nature of the road proved helpful to a few people but thankfully most of my parking worries turned out to be unfounded.

Peter Hone kindly agreed to vet for me and run the start on the day – much appreciated as I needed to set the controls out on the Friday (World Cup meeting in the Manawatu on the Saturday.) The rain continued to fall all the time I was putting them out and I became very thankful I was setting a sprint covering a small area with only 40 controls. Fortunately Peter had better weather while checking the control sites on Saturday.

On the day itself the weather and orienteering seemed to go well. A lot of people took the opportunity to shrug off the cabin fever they were getting with all the wet weather and the smiling faces made setting it worthwhile.

Hopefully everyone practised the tips I sent out for the sprint ... repeated below...

Sprint Orienteering Tips

Steady Early, Simplify, Run Smooth Lines, Plan Backwards, Stay in Control, and Learn from Others.

Steady Early – Read everything you can from the map en-route to the first control. i.e. take it a bit easy, and I stress a bit steadier, and make sure you pick up as much detail as possible – it will help you get into the map scale (often 1:4,000 or 1:5,000). This care will also give you a sense of the mapping style and will help you get ready for the challenging route choices that planners will inevitably set later in the course. You can't win a sprint/urban race on the first leg but you can lose it.

Simplify – Look ahead as far as you can, (keep your head up) make sure you identify prominent buildings and other significant features along your route. Simplifying and ticking off these important features should give you confidence to go fast for most of the leg before slowing to micro-navigate through the control and I stress “through” not “to” the control.

Run Smooth Lines – Maintain a higher speed by running the smoothest lines rather than constantly twisting and turning. Some of the better leg times are recorded by going wider but straighter and smoother thereby staying at top speed.

Plan the Leg Backwards - As with classic orienteering, look at the whole leg and plot your attack point and route in/out of the control early. Plan your leg using the Control, Attack, Route-to-attack-point (CAR) acronym. Remember many cunning planners will use the “dead-end” to catch you out if you are not reading the map carefully. You can also be caught out by different levels.

Stay in Control - just! Brain explosions are all too common in Sprint/Urban O. You must get the balance right. Run too fast and brain explodes versus run slow and therefore, be slow! You need to strike a delicate balance. The best analogy for this challenge is downhill skiing where the world class skier is only just in control of his skis and millimetres from total wipe-out! Likewise the good orienteer is only just in control of his technique – for many orienteers it is easy to outrun your technique and lose control with the inevitable significant and frustrating time loss following. You’ve also got to maintain top speed and be fit enough to hold your brain together for that crucial 12-15 minutes for the elite athletes or 18-30 minutes for the mortals in a normal Sprint.

A Very Wise Man Does Not Make Same Mistake Once aka Learn From Others - Debriefs on route choices, your execution, map interpretation et.al, with others is key to learning and improving your O skills. If you haven’t tried Sprint-O then get out there – it’s great fun.

OY 5 – Taradale Schools

I was looking forward to setting at EIT when Dad's name came up on the fixtures list. A good technical map that would have been perfect for the event. Unfortunately it was embargoed, and so a new map was decided on, Taradale Schools. While a bit of a step down from EIT, it was still an okay map to be setting.

While Dad wanted to send everyone over to Pettigrew and back, I decided to keep it short and technical. The flip map made this possible, and was a great way to include a large number of controls confined to a small area. The courses were drawn up, specifically the red medium, which I knew my biggest critic, Callum, would be running. After a quick look around the schools it was obvious the map needed a little changing. This included a new playground, the inclusion of a couple of buildings, and the deleting of another. The sketchy drawings were sent off to David Fisher, who made the changes. A few fixtures to the course, and then I sent them to Geoff for a look over. Very few problems, and soon they were printed and ready to go.

Sunday dawned bright and early, few clouds in the sky and a sunny day ahead. The controls took not long to put out, but the wooden blocks were a struggle to carry a lot at a time, so many trips back and forth were needed. Once these were out, and the first starters were away the day ran its course, the well oiled machine of the Hawke's Bay Orienteering Club. Had I known that National Men's Elite Sprint Champion, in the form of Tim Robertson, was coming, I would have probably spent a few extra hours working Condes over, but I think he enjoyed it, even if he was out there for only 12 and a half minutes. Overall negative comments were few and far between; Callum had nothing he could criticize, especially after he was beaten by just 9 seconds.

Thanks to Pam and Geoff for their commitment, Dad for letting me take over, David Fisher for helping with the re-drawing of the maps. Finally thanks to Callum for making enough screw ups to be beaten by the setter.
