EDITOR'S BLURB

This issue is a little ahead of schedule and does not have a report of our efforts at the Taupo Easter 3-day as originally intended.

I trust you have all had at least one trek to the back lawn in the early hours of the morn to see Halley's? I decided the event should be recorded for the Compass Points archives and here you have it. (You DID recognise Halley's on the front cover didn't you?).

Your next issue will be sporting a different editor - something to look forward to! With the support members are giving the magazine, producing a good flow of articles, editing an issue is a relatively hassle-free commitment. Want to have a go?

Is the year progressing well for you? Did you hear that we almost had a map correction to make at Smedley? A man-made control - one late model Camira ... enough said.

You will see from event results we have been host to Swedish visitors. Interesting to hear about orienteering elsewhere in the world. I gather 'having a go' Kiwi style was quite an education...?

A big welcome to our new members:

Robyn, Trevor, Catherine and Nicholas Plunkett

Vicki and Gerard Van Veen

Darryl, Geoff, Angela & Claire Paget

Gillian Watson

Andrew Hare

Diane, Stewart, Anthea and Logan Taylor

A list with name, address and phone number of club members will be circulated soon. There are still a few subs to come in and I would like to wait until those are in and the list is complete.

HB ORIENTEER OF THE YEAR SERIES (OY)

This year's OY series will be run as follows:-

1. Five events held over the year.
2. Your BEST three events count.
3. HB Club members only are eligible.
4. Grades

M12	W12
M13-16	W13-16
M17-39	W17-39
M40+	W40+

5. Points are awarded as follows:-

$$\text{OY Points} = \frac{\text{Winners Time}}{\text{Your Time}} \times 25$$

NZOF BADGE SCHEME

Essentially the badge scheme is an acknowledgement of achievement in a particular grade. For example, a gold W12 badge indicates that the holder has been very close to the best W12 times in at least three badge events.

Over the years, however, concessions have been introduced to cover a variety of exceptional circumstances, e.g. only two W12 finishers - M12 can be used to establish credits on the same course.

When you apply for a badge you should bear a few points in mind. Firstly, your three credits must be within a three year period. Ideally, all your credits should be in the SAME grade. However, one (or even two) credits from a higher grade (i.e. harder) can be used to complete the claim.

(taken from an article
by Mark McKenna)

pamphlet accompanying magazine.

R CHALLENGE TROPHY

The purpose of this trophy (donated by a club member) is to encourage competition by club members at a national level.

Points will be awarded to club members who compete at events which carry NZOF Badge Event status.

The Trophy is to be awarded annually for the period 1 January to 31 December.

Points are to be calculated according to the persons performance in their own grade. These grades can be either A, B or C. For those competing in B and C grades, credit awards will be calculated to give gold, silver and bronze status as with A grades.

Points will be accumulated over the 12 month period and will be gained as follows:-

Within gold credit time	10 points
" silver " "	8 "
" bronze " "	6 "
" iron " "	4 "

A BEGINNERS GUIDE TO ORIENTEERING I

Good ol' biddybiddy

ROWE ROAD - 2 MARCH 1986

A lovely day and an excellent turnout of club members. A lot of new families which is encouraging to see. I hope that we will see more of these folk.

Russell and I found it a real challenge to set courses that would be a challenge for our experienced club members as well as some courses that would be easy for the new orienteer.

From comments received and times achieved we were reasonably pleased with our effort.

However, the problem that arose with Control 3 on Course B was a disappointment. It was just as well that this was only a family event as the problem would have invalidated Course B. At first Russell got the blame for misplacing the control but after talking to Anne Sapsford and Caroline Watson (the first two to visit this control) it appears that some smart person thought they would have some fun with us orienteers and shifted the control not once but twice.

Many thanks to those who assisted with the coaches bibs and to Colin and Chris who helped collect controls.

THE HOLDSWORTH HAPPENING

At last the long O was on. The Mountain Marathon - the highlight of my year. The big courses over the big hills fire my enthusiasm as does no other form of orienteering.

This particular area proved to have its own unique qualities. Tongariro National Park has an air of stark and sometimes menacing grandeur about it. The Tararua's impressed me in a totally different manner. An atmosphere of mystery and secrecy seemed to haunt the bush clad ranges and river valleys. As each ridge was reached the terrain ahead was revealed and yet concealed - tantalising but lovely.

I will not bore the possible reader with how we reached each control, but will endeavour to share the highlights that impressed me en route to each, and I assure you that my partner did not allow a lot of sightseeing time.

FIRST DAY

Control 1. Wayne Cretney walking away from the start ahead of us - being passed by many, including us and appearing at the first control as we left it. Wayne was still walking.

Control 2. The minimal amount of undergrowth and good accessibility nearly made it a pleasure climbing up the Pinnacle Hill - wish we could have found the track. At the top was a bonny view but no viewing time. Total reward was spying several alpine gentians in bloom beside our route.

Control 3. The sheer exhilaration of scrambling, sliding and tumbling down a steep hillside under a hospitable forest screen.

The actual approach to our control was achieved by the less than graceful method of sloppily splashing our way up a turbulent wee creek. I am positive that control was grinning at our approach.

Control 4 Another uphill grunt, another glimpse of what I am sure was a grand view to the west. The ridiculous situation of running along a mountain ridge along duckboards or ankle deep in mud. I can see why they called it Pig Flat.

Control 5. The last, the best; a real bonus this one. A steep downhill approach for a start, but a fairyland valley below. The Gentle Annie Creek is a gem. A sparkling stream edged with tall trees and soft foliage guarded by the mossy trunks of fallen forest giants lying across our route. Quite sorry to leave this valley.

DAY TWO

Control 1. Not much to report here. Just sore muscles and another Tararua grunt. Certainly an excellent method of spreading the field out; it nearly spread me out.

Control 2. You go up a hill, you go down a hill. This time we went down a hill; rough for a start then into friendly forest of the run and tumble variety. We eventually ended up beside a rock the size of a small house. Colin glances at the map and nonchalantly comments, 'Should be a control near here'. About two metres to our right I spied the welcome orange and white marker. At this stage I developed terrible doubts about my partner's navigational ability. After scrambling through scrub and forest for a kilometre or so to find an error of two metres at the finish..not good for the confidence at all!!

Control 3. To coin a phrase, this was a wet leg. Seemed to be lots of creeks and streams to be crossed. All sampled and most slipped into.

Control 4. Beautiful native forest with dappled sunlight filtering through the foliage. A myriad of delicate little ground ferns and fascinating plants at our feet.

Control 5. They call the iniquitous stuff "bastard grass", a well earned name. It grabs the hairs of your legs and hangs on with the grip of a limpet. I internally shuddered as I entered each unavoidable area of this stuff. As we left four I felt sure we had entered the main propogation site of this for the entire Tararua range.

Control 6. The chorus of the cicadas as we returned to the lower river level. Their welcome song meant that the last control and the finish were close.

Finish. Three times we had crossed the footbridge. This time - what the hell - we ploughed through the cool crystal stream - nearly there.

Superb courses, excellent company, a fabulous area and kindly weather - what more could I ask for? Thank you Holdsworth!

Ted Sapsford

THE WOODEN SPOON CEREMONY

WHATING...?

NINE O'CLOCK BLUES

SCENE I Act I

Everybody: How far is this little jaunt?

Social Convener: Not far, not far.

James: I know what Julie would say..

Raucous laughter

Act II

One by one, or two or three (whatever takes your fancy), with torches in varying states of adequacy, everyone stage right.

Producer's note: The lady in the white dress and sneakers is going for gold and will be doing a Kiwi impression of the Flying Nun.

Soar round the streets, (passing those with more sense who will be walking, stage left).

SCENE II Act I

4.3 kms later, Back at the O.K. Corral.

Re-inact Mutiny on the Bounty while you still have the energy and call it Mutiny on the Mawley. Suggest the Social Convener collect controls and further, provide options for their storage.

With information deserved of Department of Statistics accuracy and showing obvious potential as politicians, discuss the completed course answers, noting John's questionable method of measuring the post height; James' problem counting pine cones and pass a remit to verify with the Masterton Borough Council that there are only 31 stones set in concrete under what's left of now very sick looking foliage on the corner of one of their residential streets.

Act II

Cruise past, centre stage, one blue and white paddy wagon; definitely not orienteering.

The 1986 Junior Orienteering Training Camp was held at the Iwitahi Outdoor Education Centre which is situated 25 kilometres east of Taupo. There were 27 participants, of both sexes, from all over the North Island (even Hawkes Bay).

It was run and organised by John Rix, John Mote, Jill Dalton, Alison Stewart, Jack Maitland with Mr and Mrs Brighthouse catering for the grub side of things.

Over the week long course we ran on seven different maps doing a number of varying exercises to improve each aspect of our orienteering, as well as doing numerous activities such as canoeing, fishing and waterskiing, which drained any remaining energy we had left.

The camp was highly regarded by all who attended. We all enjoyed it, we all learnt heaps and if anyone else out there has a chance to go to a camp like this, I'd say GO FOR IT!

HOW TO BECOME A FIXTURES OFFICER

I will put this onto paper so that if there is anyone out there who wishes to hold the aforementioned office at some time in the future then all you have to do is adhere to the following procedure.

Prior to the Annual General Meeting 'persuade' a couple of dudes to nominate and second you for the committee. Tell them to get in early. If you've kept your nose clean during the past year you should be okay.

Assuming this goes to plan the next step at the AGM is the important one. After most of the supper goodies have met the usual fate the President calls the committee together. They will form a rough circle. You must sit on the LEFT of the previous Fixtures Officer. It is my experience that this person will not want the job in the coming year and is sitting with the 'Fixtures Book' on their lap.

The President will be asking for volunteers for the various positions: statistician, mapping, fixtures officer..., there will be a hush, just sit tight, don't panic or say anything. Nobody else will, except the previous holder who will mumble something to the effect that they would rather do something else this year.

Let the silence grow... and then I swear the 'Fixtures Book' will slowly rise, move sideways and descend onto your lap without a hand being laid on it. What a wonderful moment. The job is yours.

Now it is quite possible there are a few variables in this set-up, but if you really want the job you can't afford to take risks. Stick to the formula.

See you at the next Annual General Meeting?

Stewart Hyslop

Orienteers,

I have been asked to set a course. I mean "ME" - a person who has been lost - "totally lost" in Gwavas Forest, even with such small aids as a map and compass!! Also a person to whom an 'A' course is a mystery mainly due to never having run one.

Of course I won't divulge who asked me to set five courses as it would distract from the nice surprise you'll get when he rings you.

My first thoughts about course setting "oh hell"! Second thoughts "oh the power and revenge"! Revenge on other course setters and on those to be course setters.

First job - obtain permission from the farmers - no problem. I was at school with one so no need to toady with him - BUT - that guy on the 10 acre block must hold the record for the shortest conversatin on a telephone - that was when he knew I was an orienteer!!

I am beginning to enjoy course setting now - sitting down measuring and plotting. I think plotting has a nicely evil ring to it - helps to keep ones objectives clear.

By the way, thank you Colin for lending me "Course Setters Handbook". I only hope it's helped. Should get Dave to read it - especially page seven lines 20/21 quote "Do not overdo it and hide (control) down a rabbit hole" unquote.

14th FEBRUARY. Of course you will wonder what St Valentines Day has to do with course setting. On 14 February I received a large card in the mail. One could be forgiven for thinking it was a Valentines card - but - what was it? Raretu maps!! - Sharon, I didn't know you cared.

Now I have the courses plotted and checked, all I hope for is a fine day. All you will have to hope for are controls in their rightful places.

Note from Michael Wood re entry fees:

The closing date for entries has been extended as late as possible. Please note the hefty discouragement for entries received after 12.4.86.

Event and especially mapping costs have been steadily rising over the years and we are caught between the need to recover costs and the desire to keep charges for children and newcomers low. We have concluded that the cost increases have been largely caused by orienteers who like long courses on high-standard maps of technically difficult terrain. If we only had to cater for competitors who run a short course on easy terrain, our areas would be less detailed (cheaper photogrammetry), the fieldwork would be quicker and so would the cartography. The areas would be closer to town (less petrol expenses and smaller (less printing costs). In our event 24 of the 33 grades are less than 50% of the M21A length. So we feel that the charges should relate to the length & difficulty of the courses. Into this mix, we threw a dash of ability to pay i.e. age and then we simplified the 33 possible variations into a 3-level charging structure which replaces seniors, juniors & family maximums and we hope puts the clubs where they lie.
