Editorial

That's the trouble with volunteering to do something. Then you have to do it.

When I found last year it was so tough making time to set the OY at Tangoio, I rang Hamish to say I'd take on the newsletter, but please leave me off the setter's list.

Well, things haven't got any easier. So all I can do is apologise for the lateness of this issue. I hope you're such expectant readers you noticed it was late.

Whether I do the next one is my issue.

Steve

President's Report

The year has started at its usual frenetic pace and I'm just hoping it will settle into a quiet pattern soon.

Geoff's Junior Camp went exceptionally well and I think using our top juniors as coaches probably helped a lot of the kids as the coaches were able to get down to their level easily and communicate well. Top effort all those people who helped with the camp.

The Summer series has been absolute pandemonium with huge numbers turning out, all trying to run within an hour! I congratulate and thank all the course setters and controllers for coping under such trying conditions and providing us with such fun nights.

Last weekend the Kaweka Challenge was held and it was great to see a good turnout of members helping run the days and run on the days. I think it is a little underestimated how much work goes into putting on this event and how much we owe to those people who put in the hard yards. This is a major fundraiser for the club and the amount we make each year probably equates to a new map each year. So from me, and hopefully everyone else in the club, thank you for putting on such a great event.

On the weekend of the 10th of March the Katoa Po night relays are being held in Taupo. It is a great weekend and a lot of fun. All club members are invited to come up and participate so get your names to Geoff now.

Later in the month we have a Club Coaching day. Don't stand back, come along and hopefully we can make that compass and map make more sense to you, or fix any other problems you might have.

Unfortunately we are not going to be attending the Frank Smith Trophy this year. It turned into a logistical nightmare when we found out last week the date had been changed. We were trying to swap events around to fit it in but in the end we decided with its venue near Wellington we wouldn't get the usual support and it was putting too much strain on our setters and veters to be worth it.

Please think how you can help at events. One day you'll be putting on an event and it's always nice when someone offers to help out as there is heaps to do on the day.

That's it from me. Enjoy your orienteering.

Hamish

NAVIGATIONAL CHALLENGE WITH A DIFFERENCE - BUSES AND TRAINS!

WELLINGTON AND SURROUNDING HILLS SUNDAY 20 May 2007

Navigational contests like orienteering and rogaining usually require you to travel on foot.

The City Safari is a rogaine using Public Transport - buses and trains! You can use your head instead of your legs to get partway to the checkpoints. Each checkpoint has a score, the winning team collects the biggest score in the allowed time: 6 hours or 3 hours.

The Safari is a hit with adventure racers, who can see races round the world being brought into cities for promotional reasons. And yet Wellington has rugged terrain within a stone's throw of the beehive! It's a hit with families, who can tailor a day out to their needs, using buses to rest tired little legs. And it's a hit with public transport operators, after overwhelmingly positive media coverage. Numbers have nearly doubled each year.

The checkpoints will be spread around Wellington again, with redrawn boundaries and further refinement of the unique "super-topo" map showing bus-stops, tracks, parks and shortcuts. Checkpoints could be anywhere from the Massey Memorial at Miramar to the quarry at Owhiro Bay to the top of Mt Kaukau! The flat downtown area with businesses, waterfront and other parks; the hilly suburbs with their bushclad gullies, threaded by the town belt and walkways; and peaks such as Kaukau and Makara with their spectacular outlooks. The public transport network goes right through the area, much of it on a 15-minute frequency. Yep, even on Sunday!

The winning team will require fitness and speed, but the way they use the buses and trains will also be vital. A day pass is part of the entry!

The NZOF thanks John Robinson, Mike Beveridge, Dick Dinsdale and Terje Moen for their service on the outgoing Technical Committee.

PRE-JWOC MAPPING WORKSHOP

A mapping workshop will be conducted by Queensland mapper, Eric Andrews, near Molong in central NSW on the 4-6 July 2007. The first day will be devoted to GPS mapping including a practical exercise. The final two days will be practical fieldwork in the field on photogrammetry of the "Gumble Pinnacles", which is a granite area of medium complexity. If you are interested more details can be obtained from NZOF Technical Director, Graham Teahan at gteahan@xtra.co.nz.

AGM 2007

The 2007 Annual General Meeting of the NZOF will be held on Friday 6 April at Wesley College, Paerata, Pukekohe. Clubs are invited to make nominations for annual awards.

Red Kiwi OC has submitted the following policy remit for consideration at the meeting.

"That NZOF should pay the race entry fees and purchase O suits on behalf of all competitors selected to represent New Zealand at the World Orienteering Championships and the Junior World Orienteering Championships in foot orienteering."

And finally a reminder relating to last year's AGM. The NZOF Council, as was requested, has completed its review of the High Competition Season remit presented to that AGM. The review was sent to clubs for comment on 12 December. If this issue is to be resolved in time for the 2007 AGM, then each club's feedback is needed as soon as possible.

APOC 2006 – Hong Kong

James and I decided to visit Hong Kong using the excuse of APOC (Asia and Pacific Orienteering Championships). The event was held between the 29th December 2006 and the 1st January 2007. The Chinese don't celebrate Christmas and New Year but do so commercially. Their new year is celebrated on the 17th February 2007.

There were 755 competitors, including 4 of us from New Zealand. We caught up with David Wright, an M16 from PAPO, but not Lisa Pilkington (W40). Hong Kong contributed 450, mainland China 114, and non APOC countries 58.

Hong Kong Island was ceded to Britain under the treaty of Nanking. Hong Kong returned to Chinese sovereignty on 1st July 1997 and they have two official languages Cantonese and English. The taxi drivers don't understand English well but we got the English place we wanted to go translated into Chinese characters – no problem. Unlike Beijing the police presence was invisible, in fact we saw fewer police than we would see in New Zealand. The temperature was about 19 degrees, and felt warmer than the cold summer we are having in Hawkes' Bay. We used the air conditioning, which appears standard, on occasion, and it must be oppressively hot in summer.

The area of Hong Kong is 1,100 square kilometres, and has a population of 6.9 million people. That is 6,273 people per kilometre, but you don't feel really crowded. The population lives vertically, in tall high rise buildings. If they came to New Zealand they feel they were on another planet due to our one storey buildings and the space that we have. They don't seem to make anything or do anything except shop. Their subway system is superb (the best I have seen) and only Belgium rivals them for cleanliness. They also have Perspex protection barriers, with gates only opening when the subway train is standing in the station. This makes the heroism shown in New York unnecessary.

The subway system combined with a fleet of taxis make cars unnecessary. To us they appeared cheap at an exchange rate of HK$5.44 to NZ$1 — an inner city taxi ride NZ $6, subway NZ $3. The taxis drove at very fast speeds and it is compulsory to wear a seat belt (but you would want to). A flash hotel would cost you $625 per night, a cheap one $100(which we stayed in).

We took the Skyrail to Ngong Ping Village and the cable car to Victoria Peak. Hong Kong is definitely not flat and the highlight was using the world's longest covered escalator. On James' 20th birthday we went shopping in Times Square – 15 levels 20 shops per level – if you were into shopping you would find nirvana in Hong Kong – as I said it seems to be the only thing they do. Shopping hours 11.00am to 10.00pm.

In order to have enough calories to go orienteering we supplemented the Chinese food with steak, lamb chops (a bit fatty), chocolate and peanuts. The Brits ate their cut lunch for breakfast – but we could live with the rice.

The orienteering organisation was at a New Zealand level as were the maps. The terrain was not very technical but very physical. The walk to the start for the long event was 750 metres with 200 metres of climb. There were a lot of unstable medium sized rocks covered in vegetation which would have been fine for a charger but I had a lot of problem with. I competed against the winner of the medium course in 2000 where I was 3rd and he was 16th – times have changed.

Tofu anyone?

If you like tofu, don't read this because you will soon come to hate me.

The junior camp of 2006 kicked off with an HBOC van trip to the ridge camp in Rotorua. As the innocent orienteers travelled up, they had no idea what was in store for them. They couldn't prepare themselves for intense orienteering training, angry midgets, sock wrestling, computer games, rain downpours, tofu and — worst of all — cross dressing.

So, from the start . . .

Intense orienteering training: the main reason for this camp was to improve orienteering skills. The trainings were very beneficial and great fun. It really helped my orienteering skills.

Midgets: a particular coach (who I won't name) became known as the angry midget.

Sock wrestling: someone introduced a game called sock wrestling to the camp. There were many battles, with the best one being the six-way battle between Duncan, Scott, Brett, Simon Jager, Andrew Peat and Ciarin Murphy. I'm proud to say that I managed to take it out.

Computer games: the computers at the camps were used to play 'catching features', the orienteering game.

Rain downpours: during the camp there was a lot of rain. This made trainings very hard and we even couldn't use a map because of flooding.

Tofu: soon after arriving at the camp, it was discovered that where we were staying was a vegetarian camp. Tofu instead of meat should never be done! Thanks to them I can't touch beef Stroganoff.

Cross dressing: a tradition at junior camp is a Miss Camp competition. Last year they included a Mr Camp, except that you can't be a girl to be in Miss Camp and you can't be a boy to win Mr Camp. I would like to say that Duncan Morrison took out the Miss Camp competition.

Overall, the camp was awesome and if you're thinking about going this year, ask anyone who went what it was like and they will convince you to go!

Duncan Morrison

The club caravan reappeared at the Arataki event after being out of action for repairs at a couple of the earlier Summer Series events. And towing it away proved a challenge for Steve Armon afterwards: once controls were collected and with only his car headlights to help in the darkness, he couldn't find the handle that winds up the stabilisers at the back. At least not by having a man's look. Almost giving up, he resorted to lateral thinking and found it . . . in a bag of PREVIEWS on the counter.

Waitangi Weekend

Four days and seven events — what a great way to start off the orienteering year!

Waitangi 2007 was an awesome display of orienteering talent with orienteers ranked in the top five in the world competing. Plus the top New Zealand élites battling against them. It also showed off the brilliant orienteering terrain located on the Central Plateau, with events held on the Poi Poi, Kahuu, Kahuu iti, Whakaipo Bay, Spa Park and Waihora maps.

The set-out of the days was:

Day 1 — long distance (Poi Poi)

Day 2 — a.m. middle distance (Kahuu); p.m. sprint (Kahuu iti)

Day 3 — a.m. middle distance, chasing start (Waihora); p.m. relay (Whakaipo Bay); late p.m. sprint (Spa Park)

Day 4 — loops race (Waihora)

The four-day provided great courses which challenged everyone.

Waitangi also doubled as an Australia versus New Zealand test match which our élites won.

Over the four days there were some great results from HBOC members like Ross Morrison (M21E) winning the sprint along with sisters Amber (W21E) and Kate (W20E) taking out their grade. Other results include . . .

Overall, Waitangi was a terrific show of orienteering and I encourage you to take part in years to come.

I will finish by sharing a joke Geoff made. He told me that he thought I was a member of parliament when he looked at the results. Try and work that one out.

Map cards for sale

The club is offering pre-paid map cards for the first time, this year. These will be for sale at Registration at events.

The card will be valid for 5 events and will cost $24 for individuals or $63 for families. This gives you a saving of $1 or $2, respectively, over the 5 events and will help speed up the registration process at events.

To redeem the card, bring it along to your next event, present it at Registration and receive your maps in exchange - all done!

If you have trouble finding cash before an event, then the map card will solve your problem and it could even make a suitable gift for a hard to buy for person!

Just reading my bible (as one does), I note that orienteering wasn't originated by the Swedes. It's been going on for thousands of years . . . as has coaching . . .

Proverbs 19:2 — "It is not good to have zeal without knowledge, nor to be hasty and miss the way."

Paul

WORLD BEATER: Amber Morrison.

HB junior already world champion

It is not very often that anyone can beat a current world champion but that is just what Hawke's Bay's Amber Morrison did over Waitangi Day weekend.

During the National Super Series round at Taupo, Morrison triumphed over Hanny Allston of Australia in the Spa Park Sprint Orienteering event. Allston won the World Championship sprint event in Denmark last September as well as the Junior World Championship classic distance in Lithuania.

The weekend carnival also included a test match against Australia which New Zealand won by 124 points to 92. While technically still a junior, Morrison was part of the winning New Zealand Elite Team, being first Kiwi home in four of the six individual events. She was third in the forest sprint and in the middle distance event behind Allston and the Finn, Heli Jukkola, a sprint specialist who is ranked fourth in the world, and Amber came fourth in the classic distance.

Also contributing to New Zealand's win was her older brother, Ross Morrison, who also won the Spa Park Sprint ahead of former world champion Dane Carsten Jorgensen, now ranked 51st, and Tehro Föhr (Finland) ranked 22nd in the world. Ross backed this up with second placing in the 12km loop event, behind Australian No.1 Julian

ORIENTEERING

Dent, and fourth in the forest sprint (first New Zealander).

Adding to the Morrison evening at Spa Park was 15-year-old sister Kate's win in the Under 21 Sprint over the country's aspiring juniors vying for places in a six-person Junior World Champs team. She also placed well in the middle distance event.

New Hawke's Bay club member, Penny Kane stepped up in the last elite event to claim the final event, the loop race.

Consistently impressive was Hawke's Bay's 14-year-old Jaime Goodwin in the same grade, who recorded a win in the loop race plus third in the classic. Older sister Rachel was third in the middle distance, and fourth in the forest sprint and the loop race in Under 21.

Scott McDonald and Jack Vincent took second and third respectively in the Under 21 Men's Classic event, with Scott prominent in the Spa park sprint.

Duncan Morrison finished on a high note with third in the Men's Under 21 Loop race.

Sam Eames stepped up well to the top Junior grade with a series of consistent performances, including 6th in the classic.

Brett Sceats won the loop event for Red 2 runners, while his younger brother Craig won all 6 of the Yellow courses on offer, while Katie Eames led the girls home each time she competed.

Dodgy headline but great publicity for our orienteers . . . and well done, Amber

Volunteer of the Month

January — Pamela Morrison

It would be almost insulting to state briefly what Pamela is nominated for . . . what doesn't she do? But a new role for her this year is taking over as the club webmaster, which she says is a new challenge that has transformed her computer skills. Pamela does OCAD work for the club, prepares maps for events, keeps the club's membership database, looks after uniforms for the NZSS team, is a setter and vetter and has coordinated major events for the club. Pamela has been treasurer, secretary, publicity officer and committee member for the club and was Vice President of NZOF for three years.

How long have you been involved with orienteering?

Oh, since the early 1990's.

How did you get involved in orienteering?

Derek went along to a club promo at the Showgrounds — he'd always been interested. Geoff and I had been cycling and were just about cycled out. We all went as a group including Amber to an event on Granules (the old Maraetotara map). My first event by myself was on the Te Mata map — I had no idea what I was doing. The system is a lot better now with the progression through the colour grades.

What course do you usually run?

Usually red medium.

What do you enjoy about orienteering?

I enjoy a lot of things. The personal challenge — getting round the course. I'm not a natural orienteer. The different places you go to. The exercise. I've come to love the technical side, and I've taken over as club webmaster, after having no idea how it worked — it's totally transformed my computer skills. I guess I'm a bit of a nerd in disguise.

If we met you during the week, what would you be doing?

I'm an accountant with Barnes Mossman. I do people's annual accounts and tax returns. Orienteering takes up all my spare time.

Volunteer of the Month February — Norris Cox

Norris seemed a bit mystified as to why he had been named Volunteer of the Month. Probably something to do with the Kaweka Challenge, he thought.

He said he stepped in to do the report to competitors on last year's event and the results booklet. He carried on to do the posters, entry form and programme for this year on the website and published the hard copy.

Well, that's more than enough, isn't it?

How long have you been orienteering?

Probably been orienteering about 15 years.

How did you get involved in orienteering?

My partner at the time was an orienteer.

What do you remember about your first event?

I don't remember the first one. The old Tongioio map was one of the earlier ones.

What course do you usually run?

Red medium. I do the red long if I can get back before everyone goes home.

What do you enjoy about orienteering?

The physical demands. And being out in natural surroundings on your own. Also because I know it's good for you. You've got to use your thinking — it's not boring. It's a good sport.

If we met you during the week, what would you be doing?

On my laptop, wishing I was doing something more active. I'm a land surveyor part time — doing bearings, distances, lines, that sort of thing.

Eye in the sky

By the magpie

- Kate Haselhoff provided an interesting route choice at Rotoma during an exercise at the junior camp. The route either went left or right of a big lake, but Kate (being Kate) decided she would swim straight across.
- Duncan Morrison had a great time at the Waitangi Weekend event near Taupo. He had those dreaded sounding letters by his name, mp (mispunch) on the first three events.
- Todd Oates had a handy 9 minute lead after the first day of the course 4 solo 2-day event at the Kaweka Challenge. But Todd being Todd, is not the most organised person, was still packing up his gear when he was supposed to start the next day. Consequently he was over 3 minutes late to start, and it nearly cost him victory in the end.
- Ross Morrison thought he had a great run on course 6 at the Kaweka Challenge when he broke the long standing record, but he only finished second, to a 16 year old!
- Congratulations to Louis Chambers who was chosen as head boy at Havelock North High School for 2007.
- President Hamish has been in the wars lately. He was cycling with the Ramblers Cycling Club when he caught a wheel and came down at 40kph onto the asphalt. Rearranged ribs, a bit of skin missing and bruising, is what he loves about sport. Apparently the sheep aren't showing him any respect either, as he managed to twist his knee while working them in the yards.
- Holding events in public places are always fraught with danger. A competitor on the white course informed Geoff as he ran by that the control was not where it should be. Geoff muttered something and carried on to look for his control nearby. He was distracted by a flash of orange and white in a tree near the one he was looking for. He looked, and there was a control but not the one he was looking for. It was the white course one stuck up the tree. He got up and pulled it out, put back in its rightful place and resumed his run. In the meantime, Sharon, who had been doing the white course, arrived back at the finish and informed them that there was a missing control. She showed Alan the location on the map, so he dutifully marched out to put a control where there should have been one. Of course, when he arrived, the control was there. On returning, he informed Sharon that he'd been to the spot, but there was already a control in place. After much discussion about the position, Sharon then marched out with the control, probably muttering along the lines that Alan was an incompetent fool, only to find that there was in fact a control where she thought there hadn't been one. Rumour has it that she organised an optometrist appointment for Thursday morning!

Coaching Corner

Junior Camp

26 participants took part in the HB junior camp held recently. Despite not being able to bring in outside coaches this year, the 4 day camp was a huge success. This was in no small way due to the great effort put in by our more advanced junior group who helped with the coaching. Duncan, Rachel, Kate and Jack were on hand most of the week, while Sam and Jaime gave a day. Their commitment was excellent, and the participants enjoyed their input. With no red course runners at the beginning of the week, it was satisfying to see 12 taking on the red course at the end of the week.

Most of the sessions were of red course standard, with heavy emphasis on contour and compass work. Contour only maps, line courses, and memory exercises were some of the coaching skills practiced.

Now what the participants must do now is to practice those skills at club events. The levels they achieved at Tangoio are what they must work on over the coming months.

Thanks to all the parents who were able to help out either with the culinary delights or transport. Special thanks to Lesley Sceats and Kent Parker who stayed at the camp and provided moral support when needed.

Coaching Day

There will be a club coaching day on March 25th at Maraetotara. This will start at 10.30am. Hopefully, plenty of coaches will be available, with exercises to help improve your orienteering. How often are you let down by bad technique? Here is a chance for you to get it right.

Club Event Coaching

It is tremendous to see the amount of coaching happening at our summer events. With so many new people it does not take much to get them on their way. That little bit of tuition can set them up to for the future. It is only such things as orientating the map, and the concept of the sport that is needed at times, so if you do that, then you have done a good job. Thanks to all those who are doing this.

Geoff

REPORT ON SUMMER SERIES #1

The last people I expected to ring on Christmas day were the orienteering club asking me to set an event.... So obviously I wasn't surprised when they didn't. But I was surprised on Christmas Eve when they rang with that same request (did they not read the results and see just how geographically challenged I became running Oranges). But it seems maybe they do, because they requested I set a street series on a map even I couldn't get lost on – My School. Conveniently I live only 1km south of the map so checking sites etc was no problem.

Nothing practically interesting happened setting the course. Firstly I got Condes off Dave Fisher – more convenience for me because he was also my Vetter. I then set a course and headed to school to check it. I sent off a proposed course to Dave. He sent it back with a long list of suggestions. So I changed it again to an almost new course and sent that to Dave. That came back with a slightly shorter list of suggestions (progress). So I made course number three. This came back with only a few suggestions and thus became the final course.

I appreciate the positive feedback you gave me and surprised to receive no complaints (I guess this means most of you liked finding the locked gate you couldn't jump???) . I learned heaps setting the course, like how swamped with people the finishers become (thanks heaps to our commander and chief for his assistance in this area), Learned heaps about how symbols work too. Maybe this experience will of done the impossible, and lessen the time I spend geographically challenged....Not likely though!

Biggest thanks go to Dave for his wise guidance and assistance. Thanks also to all who helped at the event and thanks to you runners for turning up (I guess you wanted to see for yourselves if Alex really could set an event that works). Finally Thanks to the club for the opportunity to set a course (and starting me on an event I wouldn't find to difficult). It would be a pleasure to set courses in the future.

Alex McCormack

P.S. If you thought something was missing you were right. The trusty caravan broke a weld (in an important place apparently). Not to worry though. Dave tells me their finding quotes to get it fixed and I should be back in action before this report is published.

Summer Series #2 — Akina Park

When Geoff and mum were organizing the fixtures for the upcoming season, the prospect of setting a course appeared relatively attractive – then I wouldn't have to run!!! Once I discovered there was actually a computer program to plan and set the course on there was defiantly (sic) no stopping me – I think everyone owes Pamela a huge thank you (if it was left to Kate and me, you would have been running 200m up a dead end street to get to the pivot control!!!) A bit pointless she suggested??!!

Between encountering a few technical glitches and 'don't worry mum I'm just about to start doing my map!' the course was finally ready to run just in time on the 7th with the rain managing to hold off until after the event, which was good considering we had no caravan.

Due to a slight printing problem, the out of bounds area (housing) turned out white – a rather smart Duncan Morrison suggested that someone may have thought it was a forest and tried to run straight through??

Whilst Kate and I were putting out the controls we were impressed that some of the Boy's High students were taking a keen interest in what we were doing – one of them asked what we were chaining to the fixtures around their school. "Oh, just detonators," we replied calmly. After that we found that our newly acquired friends were only too glad to leave us alone!

A huge thanks to Kate Morrison. Without her I would still be arguing with myself where to put the controls. Also Pamela was an amazing asset – and without her I'm sure I still wouldn't know how to operate the amazing CONDES program or that it existed at all! Also Donna & Hamish Patrick, Bryan Staunton and Mum who coordinated the registration and acted as general dogs bodies and also Rob Mc D – who helped me in a slight moment of despair!

Lastly thank you to everyone who came along to the event. I hope that you all enjoyed it and next time you see me down as setter you are not put off!!

SUMMER SERIES #3 —Anderson Park

Great turnout at Anderson Park Wednesday night! There were crowds swarming everywhere, especially around Richard at the start (must have been his after-shave). There were approximately 150 people running that night. The finish was chaotic with the young speedsters running straight at the table. Some just ran straight past the table and didn't look like they were coming back, they must have just got so in to it they just kept running! Some one passing by thought it would be funny placing one of our controls in the tree; luckily Geoff spotted it and placed it back in the correct position. Some boys were looking for a shortcut and decided they would take a little dip through the pond. Big thanks to David Fisher for his help on the course, and can't forget the help from Pam at the finish — couldn't have done it without her help. Janet had to be a fast learner in the caravan with the swarms of people, but she managed very well, her help was much appreciated. I personally got a better understanding of how much work goes in to setting up courses, and how quickly the time goes by. Also a huge thanks to Richard for the amount of help and time he put in to the course I wouldn't have managed without him.

Summer Series #4 — Arataki

About four weeks before the event, I found out I was setting this course and was relieved that it was close by. An exciting prospect was that the Brookvale Stream had been mapped and when I had to decide which areas I was to use for the course, I couldn't resist trying out the stream.

I must have walked/run up and down that stream twenty times by now! At the beginning, Mr Armon helped me record possible control sites, keeping in mind that nearby residents shouldn't be at risk of crazy orienteers trampling their well-kept little gardens around the stream.

The hardest part of the setting was working out where the start, finish, pivot and registration would be, keeping in mind the hundreds of people who might turn up. It also had to work with the loops — trying not to send runners dodging through crowds of people.

Pamela was so amazing when I went to her house to put the course on computer. She whipped through and mapped my courses in no time — thanks, Pamela.

The day of the event started out nice and relaxed, until I had to cover over all the 4's on the flag controls with 2's on pieces of paper . . . time was ticking and I ended up having to check the street controls that Mr Armon had put out just as people started arriving. The Fuhrers and Pamela were extremely helpful with organising all the registration and all the technical details, which took pressure off me.

Disaster struck when one of the control areas in the intermediate school was blocked off on the day and we relocated the control to where people coming round the corner of the building would simply run into it. BUT we didn't realise that doors to the corridor would stay open, allowing people to go in searching for it. I apologise deeply to those of you who weren't warned about the slight change in location — it was an unfortunate slip.

Thank you very much to Pamela, the Fuhrers, Ruth for helping at the finish, and my vetter Mr Armon. I hope you all enjoyed it.

I was a bit nervous when asked to set a course, seeing as my orienteering skills and attendance at events are a bit spasmodic, however it's been a great experience. The regular phone calls and support received from club members were well appreciated, keeping me on to the job and answering the 101 questions I had. The opportunity to set a street series that was based just around the corner from my house was a great place to start with course setting.

The Condes mapping programme was fun to work with, once my vetter, Rolf Boswell had set me on the right track. Between us we managed to keep the course distance down as well as incorporating a couple of route choices. When we set out to check the course, we found the council had cut down loads of trees on the reserve and then replanted others in different places. The course was looking pretty confusing until I took the map to Dave Fisher, who moved the trees via some map alterations and then worked his magic to make the course clearer.

The evening of the event brought a few showers, although not enough to make us put up the tunnel tent. It was great to have over 110 people through the course, despite the grey weather. There weren't too many DNF's, no one went swimming in the creek, there were only a couple of complaints about a certain control attached to a tree root, so a pretty successful event all round.

Many thanks to all those who helped out with support throughout the planning process as well as on the day. Special thanks to the Andersons who were busy in the caravan and I hardly saw all night, to Rolf for all his help in planning and preparing the event, to Dave Fisher for providing shelter with his umbrella on the finish line, and all those regulars who stayed behind (again) to help pack up.
