President's Report

It's been a busy couple of month's with some really top quality orienteering. On the club side we've had some great events with the OY at "Tangoio", a contour only event at "Over the Hill" and the Score Champs at "Rowe Road". All were different and challenging in their own way. Well done to all the organisers.

While the rest of the club were running on "Over the Hill", seven of our juniors were representing NZ in a challenge against their Australian Secondary School counterparts. They all turned in some great runs contributing to a thrashing of the Ockers 6 – 2. Good efforts team and great to see HB at the front a lot of the time.

The main focus recently has been on our four events at Labour Weekend. What a weekend it turned out to be. The weather did its best to spoil things but it didn't count on the tenacity of the HBOC. Feedback from the orienteers was very good and most seemed to go away happy. I'd like to congratulate and thank all club members who helped put on such a successful weekend. It's hard to pick out single people but I feel the contributions from Pamela, David and Geoff were enormous. They all love orienteering and didn't get a run all weekend (unless you count putting out base stations and collecting them in!). Others who deserve mention are Murray, who spent all his waking hours looking after the equipment and Lesley, who found all the personnel (and made sure they turned up) to do all the jobs. There were so many club members (even some who hadn't entered and others who had only just joined the club) who helped — it was just so damn impressive!

I think in a way it is good for the club to put on a major event (and members to take part in one) because it makes you appreciate how much effort goes into staging every event. It's great to see our younger members volunteering their help so willingly and it's something I now feel guilty about from my younger years.

You have probably noticed by now our new caravan. Isn't it flash? Thanks to Jo, Alan, David and Murray for all their time getting it onto the road. Please look after it. Some of the doors and moveable parts are quite light so you will need to be careful with them. Please take the time to read the operating instructions on the website and/or inside the caravan.

Coming up we have two more OY's (the second at "Taheke" doubling as the Red Kiwis Challenge) and then we can have a break.

The AGM/Prizegiving will be held in December and I'm standing down as President, so if your'e looking for a job . . .

Hamish

Map cards for sale

The club is offering pre-paid map cards for the first time, this year. These will be for sale at Registration at events.

The card will be valid for 5 events and will cost $24 for individuals or $63 for families. This gives you a saving of $1 or $2, respectively, over the 5 events and will help speed up the registration process at events.

To redeem the card, bring it along to your next event, present it at Registration and receive your maps in exchange - all done!

If you have trouble finding cash before an event, then the map card will solve your problem and it could even make a suitable gift for a hard to buy for person!

Waitangi Summer Carnival

2 - 10 February 2007 - New Zealand

Orienteering at its best!

Following on from the success of the 2007 Waitangi 4-Day, we are proud to announce the return for 2008. The carnival begins in Taupo and ends north of Auckland, a total carnival tour of only 3 hours driving distance.

Taupo

2/2 - Middle Distance, Airport

This event is on some extremely complex Taupo gullies and is the first part of a chasing start.

2/2 - Katoa Po - Night Relays, Tukairangi

The Night Relays have been an annual occurrence with this being the 28th event.

3/2 - Games Distance, Waihora

This event will be a chasing start, with times calculated from the Middle Distance from the Airport Map. Games Distance is an event that has an EWT of 40-60 minutes.

Hamilton

4/2 - Sprint Distance, Waikato University

The map has previously been used for the Hamilton Summer Series, but is having extensive remapping occurring to bring it to sprint standard and is also being extended to encompass the whole University.

5/2 - Loop Race, Wharepapa South

Keep an eye out for some slight refining of our loops race, we are keen to have some more action packed head-to-head racing. Wharepapa South is a rocky map.

6/2 - Multiday Distance, Aramiro

This event is the CD Champs for 2008. A beautiful forested map which was previously used for the 2004 CD Champs and the 2005 WOC Trials.

Auckland

7/2 - Auckland Summer Series, One Tree Hill

The Auckland Orienteering Club has happily scheduled one of its famous Summer Series events to fit into the Waitangi Summer Carnival. This event will be enter on the day.

9/2 - Multiday Distance, Woodhill

For elite competitors this will be a Middle Distance. For all other grades it will be a Multiday Distance.

10/2 - Multiday Distance, Stillwater

This map is being extended and may be the final use before it is felled for development.

Letters to the editor

Dear Steve —I refer to Derek Morrison's report, "Dubbo - etc etc", in your July-August issue. As Manager of the Silva NZ team at JWOC this year, Derek is well qualified to comment on the financial support that the team received. In stating that, "Most of the Europeans were surprised that our competitors had to pay their own way", I realise that Derek is not trying to ignore the support that was given or belittle it but merely trying to highlight the comparison of NZ's plight with those of teams from Europe. Nevertheless, the general reader is likely to draw the conclusion that the NZ team received no financial support whatsoever. For the record, the NZOF contributed $4,000, sponsorship secured by the NZOF contributed a further $4,375 and fundraising by the athletes and others channeled through the NZOF an additional $2,933. On top of that, by paying some expenses on behalf of the team, the NZOF (being GST registered) has been able to save the team $574 in GST. Altogether a total of $11,882. Admittedly out of total expenditure for the team of around $34,000 this is still, at one-third, a minority contribution but nevertheless not insignificant and was the best we could do in the circumstances.

Regards

Stuart Payne

General Manager New Zealand Orienteering Federation

RE: Letter to editor (Compass Points)

Hi Stuart (and copy to Steve for the mag) — You are quite right: I was comparing attitudes and year on year costs, rather than specifics of 2007 funding. Most of the traditional European countries provided fully funded trips, or no more than a few hundred dollars cost per athlete (which apparently, some parents still complained about). I was also led to believe that some of the Eastern European countries were supported in some way by IOF, but have no proof of this. The point I was trying to make to club members was that for the Europeans there was an expectation that if selected, orienteers expected to have their trip substantially funded, while the opposite is the case here – to put one's name forward is to commit to the bulk of the travelling costs. It was an eye opener for them. I hope your response is included in the next Compass Points – and I shall of course be able to elaborate on my comment and of course thank those that did contribute generously, including local sponsors such as Sport HB.

Cheers

Derek Morrison

Have you visited www.hborienteering.com lately?

This is our club website and if you haven't visited recently, then have a look. This is the place where you'll find all the latest information on what is happening in the club – news, results and latest event information.

If someone new wants to find out about the club or the sport, then direct them to the club website – there is information there for new members, the latest fixture information and a map of our event locations.

News from other clubs

If it's not too confusing, this is a case of quoting them quoting us. The following paragraph appeared in the October 2007 issue of DOCUMENT, the Dunedin Orienteering Club newsletter:

Hawke's Bay's Compass Points is almost one long list of how well all their juniors and teams are doing and it's a bit depressing — NZ secondary school champs, JWOC, and the great doings of Ross Morrison at WOC together with some fulsome praise from his uncle Geoff. The NZ team of 16 secondary school orienteers selected for the Aussie schools champs has no less than seven from Hawke's Bay (and I think they are all from the North Island as well). However the mag doesn't forget to highlight some of their older members in the 'Volunteer of the Month' section.

Relocation Tactics

(from The Auckland Orienteer)

Despite your best efforts, you will still become temporarily misplaced on occasion and need to relocate.

STOP! The most critical step in getting out of trouble is to STOP and ADMIT there is something wrong. The sooner you do this, the quicker you will get back on track. Listen to those alarm bells in your head. The second something is not quite as you expected it to be, STOP!

ORIENT the map. CHECK your compass and be absolutely sure the map is oriented to north. Look around and try to match the ground to the map, not the map to the ground. It is very easy to make a map fit to terrain that is nowhere near it.

Identify your last known definite point. Where did you go from there? Could you have made a parallel error?

Climb onto something high. Don't try to relocate standing in a hole in the ground.

Look for distinctive features that stand out. A one-contour hill will not stand out among a lot of dot knolls, but a three-contour hill will.

Pairs of features are more distinctive, for example, a single knoll will look much the same as another one, but a knoll right next to a depression will be distinctive.

Be decisive and make your way to a large feature like a track or large clearing. Don't flounder around hoping to see the control. And don't panic.

Coaching Corner

Skill debrief

Those that took part in the Deco double weekend have a grand opportunity to analyse their runs. Most have someone who you consider a 'good' orienteer running the same course during the weekend. If you had a problem, talk to them about how they approached that leg. Even talk to them about what skills to use at what time. Check your splits with the best in your grade or even on the course. See where you lost the most time and try to work out the reason why. A lot of orienteers draw their route on their map, and write on the back what occurred during the race. Legs you have done well and why, and where mistakes were made and why. There are a lot of reasons why we make mistakes, and after a while you may notice a trend that you can rectify. Improvement will come if you are honest with yourself and identify your own problem (it is something a coach cannot monitor due to the nature of the sport).

Improving

A lot of orienteers are looking for instant improvement, and this is understandable. A lot of runners get frustrated in the early stages of their careers, so they train harder! But the technical aspect is what they need improve to get faster. Only run as fast as you comprehend the map. This at times means orienteering on the edge, which is what most of our elites do, but they have plenty of practice in doing so. As hard as it sounds, it is better to slow down to speed up. My orienteering improved heaps when I decided to walk to the triangle, read my map closely, look at my course, and cruise to the first control without error. What had happened was that as the course progressed, I was running faster and faster without noticing, due to being totally immersed in the map. I found that gone were my large errors, panic, etc, and what I had found was that instead of spasmodic raids to the top of the results board, I was consistently there. Experience counts for a lot, and perfecting skills like comprehending land form while running is what we all ultimately want to achieve.

Practice

A good way of practicing is collecting controls after an event. Even if it means going with an experienced orienteer just to pick his or her brains. Organise it that you collect the most difficult technically and while not under the pressure of an event you will be surprised how accurate you can be. Stewart Hyslop organises the control collectors so have a chat with him and he will set you up with someone.

Geoff

NEW MEMBERS

A warm welcome to the following new members to the club. We look forward to seeing you at future events:

Eye in the sky

By the magpie

- * The wind played havoc at the Double Deco, literally blowing the controls away! Some were blown up to 120 metres as gusts just picked them up and dispatched them yonder.
- * Tim Anderson came up with a great idea for a results board when the tent and scoreboard became a less than viable option. Use the solar-powered trailer. It worked a treat.
- * The girl-guides manfully (womanfully) stood their old canvas tent up and it held firm throughout. It was a bit worrying that it might blow onto the bbq, which would've been interesting.
- * The maps blew out of the boxes on day 3, and unfortunately Olivia Gregory found that a course 4 map ended in a course 5 box. She then competed with the W20's and acquitted herself very well against them all.
- * We had our own version of Mad Cow Disease at The Slump. Poor Gillian Ingham was attacked by a disturbed cow but it was sent on its way by a stick wielding Anna Robertson. So our fearless President went and sorted our cow out using his vast matadorial skills.
- * A very 'camp' man was an interesting spectator at the sprint event. Wiggling his hips, he arrived at the start while Alan Berry was setting up and sat on one of the starter's chairs. Alan advised him that he couldn't sit there so this guy offered him a vodka shot, which Alan declined. He eventually moved on and sat under a tree. But he then noticed the élites warming up in their lycra so thought he would get a closer look. It was all too much for him, so he whipped off his shirt and was seen running back and forth with Darren Ashmore and co (probably offering them vodka shots). Later he came across Derek minding controls on the course. He asked if a jandal could be repaired, and when Derek said no, offered him a vodka shot. After he moved on, a man arrived with a uniform with a badge asking Derek if he'd seen this man, to which Derek replied yes, he went that way, and here is his jandal. Apparently the vodka shots had been stolen off the counter at a liquor store. So the question remains, who was this man, where was he from and what happened to him? Want more information on this bizarre occurrence? Val Morrison has more!
- * On the sprint event, Jack found on the Friday that there had not been any course 1 maps printed, but Pamela said don't worry, she could do some at work. Friday was a holiday, so it meant getting back to town to pick up thicker paper after the event on Saturday. She arrived at Warehouse Stationery at 4.57pm and the doors were locked with people inside, despite it supposedly being open until 5. She tapped on the door and they waved her away. She was not impressed, but now she had to find a source somewhere after 5 on a Saturday evening. A Lotto stationery was probably the answer, and finding one, discovered they just had the normal thinner grade, but after some more rummaging she came across two packets of 50, the right thickness! The assistants said there was not much call for this grade and she could have it at a special price. Back in business!
- * Rowe Road was the end of the road for our fantastic old caravan. Sadly the time had come for her to be pensioned off and sit in an old caravans' home at the Mardons'. Found in a paddock years ago by Ted Sapsford and co, it has been a proud asset of the club ever since, but over the years it has become more and more difficult to get a warrant of fitness for it. It nearly came adrift from its chassis earlier in the year and hung on long enough for the new one to be built and come into commission.

New Zealand wins secondary school test

When the New Zealand secondary schools team beat the Australian schools team in the orienteering test match in ACT, Australia on 1 and 3 October, seven Hawke's Bay club members were in the team of 16: Jack Vincent, Scott McDonald, Rachel Goodwin, Jaime Goodwin, Duncan Morrison, Kate Morrison and Brett Sceats.

Brett writes about the trip —

The 2007 tour of NSW for the New Zealand secondary schools team was an enjoyable one and was a great experience for the newbies in the team such as myself. I found the terrain much different from anything I had experienced in New Zealand.

Huge rocks and clusters meant that within the control circle navigation was still a challenging task, and I personally lost many minutes inside of the circle. Eucalypt forest also was different from the pine forest we had experienced in New Zealand. The eucalypt was very quick running in most places and you didn't have to dodge heaps of branches. Bare rock and ant-hill were also like nothing I'd seen in New Zealand but weren't very difficult to adjust to.

Snakes were not the problem I had originally thought and neither were crocodiles, but I was a little scared when we had to run through a kinda large marsh in the Oceania Long.

Other than the orienteering, everything else went well. Accommodation was nice, so were the burritos I cooked and it was generally a good trip.

A huge thank you to Derek and Anna who managed the team for all the work before and especially during the trip, and encouragement while I was part of the team.

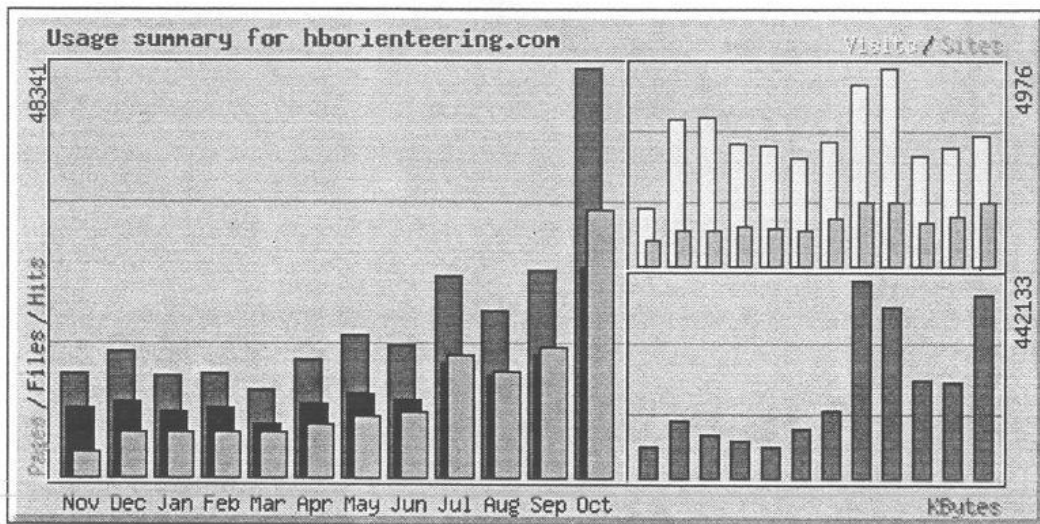

www.hborienteering.com

Does anybody actually look at the club website ?

Well, yes, it seems that rather a lot of people, and automated crawlers and search bots, peer into the club website.

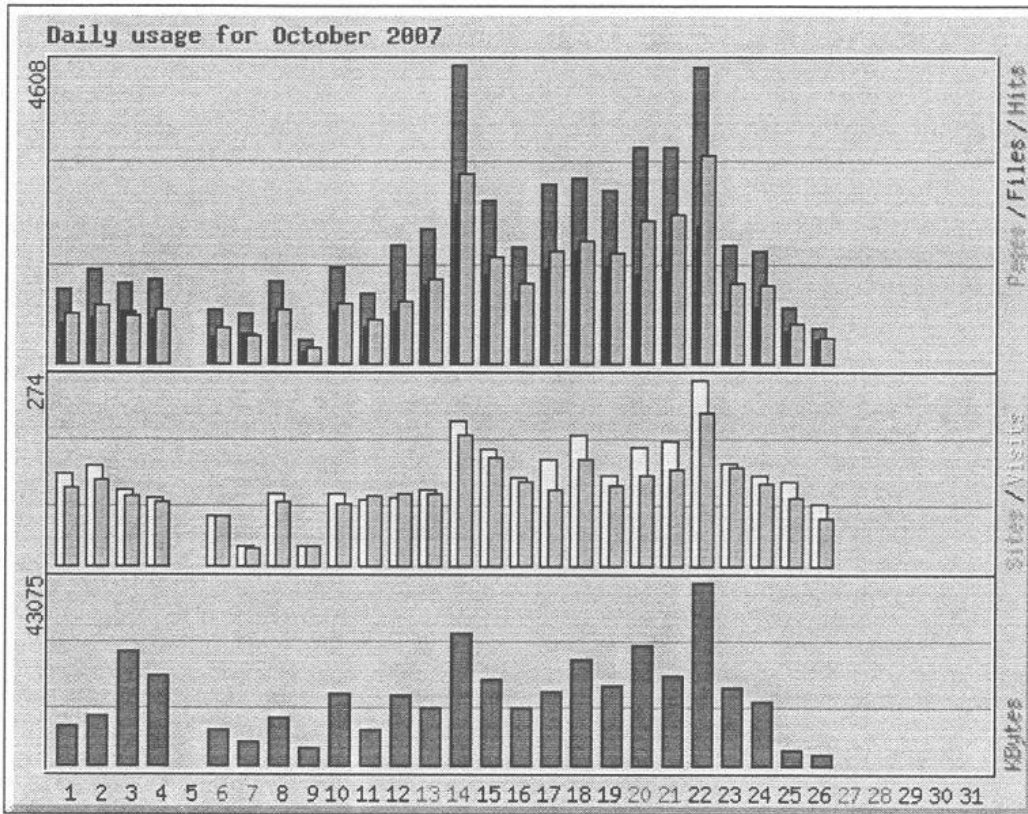

October was much busier than other months due to the Deco Double event entries and results being made available on the website.

Note: The dates and times on the graphs are for the United States, they are approx. 6.5 hours ahead and one day behind our local New Zealand.

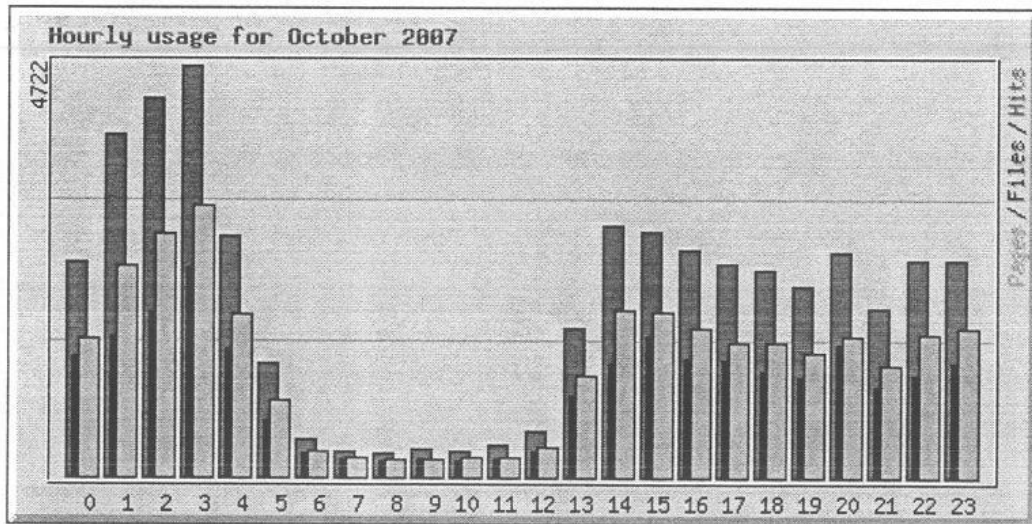

The dark blue “Files” bar, rising from May onwards, was the setting up of the Deco Double web pages and then the processing of the entries and results.

My guess is that the 14th and 22nd are actually for the 15th and 23rd in N.Z. and were people looking for the start lists and the results for the Deco Double event.

Hour 6 is approximately midnight in N.Z. The busy times of hours 1-3 correspond to 7:00pm to 9:00pm

COURSE SETTING

When setting courses we must constantly remind ourselves that the sport of orienteering is all about navigation. It is not about making the competitors "find" controls. If they navigate accurately to the centre of the circle, the control should be there waiting for them. Nothing is more satisfying than to complete a long and complex leg, run over a little spur into the re-entrant where the control should be - and there it is. Just where you expected it, out in the open, waiting to be clipped. Not hidden behind a little patch of gorse, or tucked under a thistle. Right in the middle of the re-entrant.

Yellow course. The yellow course is one of the easier ones to set. Once you have planned the white course the yellow will often follow much the same flow, although it need not necessarily do so.

The rules say that the controls on a yellow course must be not more than 50 metres from a drawn linear feature – the sort of features used for the white courses, such as fences, streams, tracks and the like. The yellow course is a stepping stone up from the white course and should challenge the competitor's skills a little more. The trick with yellow courses is to set them in such a way that the most skilful competitor will win. Make the competitors cross open spaces, away from the handrails. Put the controls in positions that encourage them to cut corners to gain a time advantage compared with running around the handrail. But remember, the control feature must be within 50 metres of a handrail so that if they get bold, cut the corner and miss the control, they will at least still run into the fence or other handrail beyond the control. If the control is by a feature 50 metres from the handrail, make sure that there is some feature on the handrail that tells them where to get off and head for the control. In other words, if the control is on a little hill 50 metres into the forest from a straight piece of track, there must be something on or immediately beside the track that tells them when to head into the forest.

Control sites (not the controls themselves) shall be visible from the approach side by any reasonable route. Contour recognition is not required for navigation but simple contour features, such as hilltops, may be used for control sites. Doglegs are permitted.

Control numbers. Avoid placing controls close together, in a situation where the control numbers may be easily confused by competitors. We are quite likely to be confused enough already, without coming across control 233, just around the corner from 223, which is the one we really wanted. Or 96 and 69, or 268 and 266. You know what I mean.

Volunteer of the Month September — Murray Harty

Murray Harty is the club's new equipment officer and, like all orienteers, is still finding his way.

Murray said he got shoulder-tapped by Hamish but was keen to take on the job. Setting an event had made him aware of just how much effort goes into keeping everything going, so he was keen to contribute if he could. He says he is only just getting to grips with it and is very happy to carry on.

Murray has been involved with setting up the new caravan which has been done so as to reduce the clutter inside. Most gear is accessible from the outside. Murray notes the purchase of new gear such as plastic boxes, a lot more flags and new timer clocks.

Pictured here is faithful companion Poppy who set the Te Mata Park score event with Murray's help.

How long have you been involved with orienteering?

I guess maybe four or five years. Nick was mates with Scott who dragged him into it.

How did you get involved with orienteering?

Through Nick and Alex.

What do you remember about your first event?

Nothing. What was my first orienteering event, Jo?

What courses do you usually run?

Red medium.

What do you enjoy about orienteering?

I had always done harriers in Invercargill. The events I enjoyed most were out in the rougher stuff. Orienteering seemed to be a nice combination of the things I enjoyed.

If we met you during the week, what would you be doing?

I'm an anaesthetist at Hastings Hospital and at Royston.

Volunteer of the Month

October — Sharon Mardon

Our October volunteer of the month is Sharon Mardon who looked after the entries for Deco Double weekend.

Sharon says it was not a big job as 70% entered on-line. She entered the others and 'banked a few cheques'. A stickler for detail, Sharon was annoyed she spelled one name wrong — sorry, Claire. Sharon also baby-sat two controls opposite Mary Doyle and found it an interesting study of our technique as we spotted them.

Sharon also looks after entries for our annual fundraiser event, the Kaweka Challenge, answering telephone enquiries, banking the cheques, doing registrations on the Friday and helping at the finish.

Most of us associate the Mardons with the club caravan which has sat at their orchard between events for over 20 years, and with what was supposed to be the Mardon's garden shed which the club has taken over for storing our consumables. The old caravan will fittingly find a permanent home on the orchard as it will go into the accommodation area and be turned into a bedroom.

How long have you been involved with orienteering?

I know I started in '78 or '79. The first time we went, they were still using buckets with a pencil attached. You had to answer a question. Only people like Dave Smith and Brian Crawford would remember that.

How did you get involved with orienteering?

We took the kids to a family adventure film and the club had a display in the foyer. Philip thought it looked interesting. Next day we went to a club event at Pakowhai Park. It was another year before we went to another one, when I said we had paid our sub and we really should make the effort to get there. After that, we've never stopped.

What do you remember about your first event?

At that first event we dragged the kids around with us. Our second event was at Te Mata Park — it took us a long time, me and two or three of the (four) kids. I remember I did a 180 and went up the wrong hill.

What courses do you usually run?

Red short.

What do you enjoy about orienteering?

Getting out and getting the old body moving. You have to use your brain and go places you otherwise wouldn't. I like visiting the out-of-the-way places.

If we met you during the week, what would you be doing?

What I'm paid to do is the orchard banking. And washing the tea towels and aprons every day — two loads every day, then ironing the aprons. I garden and go to the gym twice a week, do aquajog, play tennis, and at the moment I'm doing embroidery for the grandchildren.

Lower Tukituki Report

It came as a bit of a surprise when I got a phone call from Richard Lynn in late May to check on my thoughts for my event. Huh? What event? This was news to me, as I hadn't realised the setter and vetter list that had been on our fridge since early January had been slightly altered! At least Richard was onto it.

With only a number of weeks to the event we decided we had to get out to the map pretty soon. Finding time that suited us both proved rather difficult but we eventually set a date and spent a productive afternoon on the map checking out sites and so on. Due to the small size of the map we decided to go with the memory on the reds (just so it wasn't too easy for the pro's), and the normal options for the other courses.

The day before the event, while putting controls out, things weren't looking too good with rain pouring down and the electric fences on (as I painfully found out!). However, we were struck lucky on Sunday with a beautiful, warm, calm day and it was great to see a good turnout for a rather minor event. So good in fact that we ran out of maps by about 12.00 and Dad spent the hour rounding up used maps to re-use! We managed to persuade a few more people to do the memory course though because they wouldn't need a map for that.

Apart from that, things all seemed to run smoothly and it was awesome to sit at the finish and hear people's stories of the crazy things they did on the run. I was stoked to hear of a few people taking the brave route straight through the muddy pond rather than take the more popular (and sensible) route right around the pond – good on you who did! I also heard many reports of people getting zapped by the fences, which I apologise for not warning runners about beforehand, but I knew you'd find out one way or the other haha.

Congratulations to all the course winners and particularly Brett Sceats who had a storming run on the Red Long memory just to add another one to the list of juniors showing up the more senior runners. C'mon oldies, what's happening?

Finally, thanks to Joe... I mean Mr Christensen, Pam and Mum for helping out in the caravan and to the family for helping to collect controls. But most of all, thanks to Richard for his patience, advice and help in making things much easier for me on the day.

Setters Report

At the end of the event, after I had left Dave (Fisher) with the caravan to return, the 'week after' event to organize, the remaining controls to gather and put away and the pile of clip cards, Dave reminded me that I had a 2000 word essay to write about what a great Vetter he was. I figured that everyone except Dave would be bored silly with that so I will stick to the Orienteering!

Tangoio is such a big map I thought I should try and find an area little used in the past. Once I checked out the rocky area (that the Red and White courses went through) and saw that it was fairly clean, I was determined to use it. This actually took a lot of thought, but the courses seemed to come together once I put the start at the top of the hill to lessen the climb on the shorter courses. Judging by the winning times the courses were about the right length although Red Long and Yellow were possibly a bit short.

Red Medium & Red Long had a long route choice leg. It appears that most people went around the hill to the right past the event center. I actually tried to set it so that going high and left was the better option. Once you got up the initial climb it was virtually flat or downhill to the control. The idea was that those who had the courage to take the climb early would be rewarded. Plus they got the reward of the stunning views from the top! However I didn't time the options so we will never know which was the faster.

Red short had a route choice option from 3-4. I would have thought that the left hand option would have been faster but it had a riskier approach to the control. Hopefully this gave the risk versus reward level that I strive for when setting.

A few people had trouble with the rock detail on the Red Courses. When I first visited the area I was pushed for time and my first reaction was that I would have to remap all the rock! However when I went back to the area and went over it more carefully I was pleasantly surprised with how accurate it was. I think that unlike some of our other rocky maps, this area had a lot of undergrowth and this made some of the rock features hard to see. There wasn't much 'rock frustration' vented at the finish, so either you are all too polite or you handled it OK.

I found the Orange course the hardest to set as it was hard to leave the ridge lines without adding a lot of difficulty and climb, but to stay on the ridge lines made it too easy! Hopefully the course was a reasonably compromise.

The most amusing incident while setting the course (beside my 5 year old son swimming nude in the muddy pond near the finish) was when I was running through the forest and spotted 2 mountain bikes parked up in an area where there were no Mountain Bike trails! The only reason that I could think of for this was that there might be some biking lovers somewhere nearby. So I veered away and kept running while trying to make as much noise as possible, all the while watching out so as not to stand on anyone. A bit further on, I spotted 2 blokes throwing branches around. It turns out that they were starting work on a new downhill track and they assured me that they were not gay lovers!

Thanks to Linda for running the white start, Andy for running the caravan and collecting controls and Dave who on top of the many many hours of work he does for the club gave me heaps of help for this event.

Final comment: Proud Dad moment. My daughter Emma did her first White Course on her own at Tangoio. Yippee. Never again will I be told (while going around the course with her) that I am going too fast, or too slow, or that I am telling her too much or that I should have told her more!

Setter's Report

Five weeks out . . .

Comments from experienced club members that the Over the Hill map was difficult to set good red courses on got me thinking – why not try a contour only map as a red course option to make it a bit more interesting? Why not make both red courses contour only – stops people opting out!

Four weeks to go . . .

Take some initial ideas for courses round to Stewart's (Hyslop). Got sidetracked looking at his photogrammetry machine – what a fascinating and complex device. With its camouflage green exterior it looks like something that should be in a military museum. Started getting some courses sorted on paper – the south part of the map looks more interesting so the courses will be concentrated there.

Three weeks out . . .

Day trip to the map to finalise control sites. Took longer than expected (I expect it always does) as there was a bit of remapping to do ... some new fencing, existing fences now derelict, some minor contour feature changes – but all important as they did impact on our planned courses. Weather was miserable by the end of the day, wind and rain. The last few sites were checked with fogged up glasses and a blotchy map!

Four days to go . . .

Ring the landowner to check about stock and remind him to turn the fences off. Not answering phone but finally track him down – he is trout fishing in the South Island!

Day before . . .

All controls out without a hitch, although the cattle seem very interested in a couple of them. Hope the controls are still there in the morning!

The day . . .

It would have been an early enough start anyway without the start of daylight saving! Only one control taken for a short walk by the cattle. I hope all participants had a good day and found the contour only maps a useful exercise. Everyone took a bit of a battering from the wind but only one report of a map getting blown away!

Very important to acknowledge and thank:

Stewart Hyslop – Highly recommended as a vetter for a first time setter! Knowledgeable, unflappable, heaps of helpful advice.

Dave Fisher – unravelled the mysteries of Condes – I can now move/delete/rename controls with the best of them! Also remapping changes and sticking around on the day to the end.

Pamela Morrison – also helped with Condes and came to the rescue when my courses suddenly didn't fit on the new map anymore.

Deborah Turner – Manning the caravan, control collection and helping me erect the toilet tent in gale force winds (didn't blow over all day, either)

Virginia and Lynette – control collection and encouragement and support on the home front, where it matters most.

CD Champs at the Slump — Setter's Report

I was really dreading setting the CD Champs. Could I make courses that would challenge some of NZ's top orienteers? I spent a couple of days out on the map first, identifying places I would like to send people, and then I worked on legs I thought would challenge, and control sites which looked harmless. I lived and breathed "The Slump" for a couple of months experimenting, devising and planning. Then I came up with my courses. I probably used too many controls but everywhere I looked there were areas I wanted to put a control in. "The Slump" is like that.

I had two areas of the map I wanted to use – the strip along the top and the south west bottom. My intentions were to send you into the jumble of intricate knolls, depressions and re-entrants with the hope of confusing the hell out of you. The problem with using these areas was that it increased the climb and made for a tough uphill leading to the finish. I hope it was worth it.

My course times were pretty right except for course six where the climb really did take effect. Standout performances of the day were from Tim Robertson running 36 minutes for M14A and Willi Mueller and Marquita Gelderman's times on Course 4.

Gutsy efforts of the day must go to Anna Robertson and Gillian Ingham for doing battle with a wild cow which actually knocked Gillian over!

I'd like to thank all the club members who helped with the running of the day and Dave Fisher for preparing the maps and Ken Holst, my controller, who checked all my courses and corrected all my mistakes.

Lastly it was great to get all the positive comments from orienteers afterwards – that's what really makes it all worthwhile.

Wellington Middle Distance Championships Whanawhana — Report

Two and a half years since the NZ champs long distance champs were held at Whanawhana we returned. What a great spot this is, especially as the farm had been heavily stocked in sheep over the winter. But then it was sheep that created our first little hurdle, for being susceptible to adverse weather due to their location, it meant they lamb very late. The lateness kept us from getting onto the map until a week before the event! Having been there just once before lambing, it certainly was a tight situation, we took a quite novel approach to setting, controlling, controls out, map printing, etc.

The delayed start was for people to enjoy the world cup final before they came to the event, but the All Blacks demise in earlier rounds put paid to any celebratory nature that would occur if they had won. Hopefully you enjoyed the game anyway, though I think the orienteering was probably more exciting.

It was more exciting for us, as on arrival at the event centre, there was Mark McKenna and David Fisher battling with the ailing club tent in those horrific winds. Initially trying to put it back up, it was found that the centre pole had destroyed the o-ring at the apex, there was a tear in the side and one of the zips had been destroyed. So it was tent down and plan B implemented (which we had to think about while putting base stations out).

The wind was so fierce that putting base stations out was not as straight forward as expected. A number had blown over but there was one in particular, #56, that I wasted 10 minutes looking for. It had blown some 120 metres away and was found lying in rocks under trees.

The competition itself went well, with enough scope to make little errors throughout. Of course, the HB club were naturally very pleased to see Ross Morrison's name atop the M21E result board, albeit by 25 seconds from Carsten Joergenson despite making a mistake. Rachel Smith (another HB member!) gained revenge on Lizzie Ingham in W21E, though Toby Scott ran faster on the course in M20A. Jamie Brigham-Watson (M18A) beat all the M40's on course 3, while Switzerland's Willie Mueller caused consternation amongst all our M50's on course 4, lean and mean he swept all before him, but not on this day, as M16's Duncan Morrison had his measure. Duncan must've been all fired up for his event later in the day. Rachel Goodwin was fastest woman, 4th fastest on the course, impressively winning W20 by over 4 minutes. A close finish occurred with Marquita Gelderman, just edging out Carey Nizzer in W40 by 13 seconds. Neil Kane was over 3 minutes faster than everyone else on course 5 running M60, Patricia Aspin(W60) was fastest woman, while my favourite victory was Olivia Gregory in the W16 on the same course. If Neil was doing the damage on course 5, Kate Fortune (W60) demolished course 6, beating everyone by over 6 minutes! The closest race of the day was on this course, with Alan Berry ousting Ian Basire by just 5 seconds in the M70 grade.

It was great to see the junior fields with goodish numbers, and talent. How good is Tim Robertson, running M14? Though, the W14 girls couldn't hold out Keryn Burns running W21B (how long is she going to stay there)? Lauren Turner continues to impress, but was hard-pressed by a bevy of HB girls over the weekend. But it is great looking through the lower grade fields and watching the emergence of the Irelands, the Goodalls, the Sceats, the Howells, the Sampsons, etc etc. Despite the wind, Sean's string course proved very popular, though some of his pictures must be close to the Pacific Ocean by now.

I was impressed with the resourcefulness of our club members in extreme conditions in making the event run smoothly, even utilising the solar-powered trailer as a results board! Perhaps the necessity of building an event centre is perhaps not! Over the years, we have found that hosting a major multi-day event is very good for club bonding and finding out more about fellow members and this one was no exception.

Finally thanks to Mark (my controller), who apart from living in Rotorua, was hamstrung by the lack of access to the map, and a trip to Australia for the Oceania Champs, adapted to conditions, enabling both of us to get across the line intact. Also a special thanks to Lesley Sceats, Pamela Morrison and David Fisher whose efforts co-ordinating the event made it what it was.

A review of the Deco Double

I hope everyone enjoyed the weekend of orienteering that made up the Deco Double. I have had lots of positive feedback from visiting competitors, who all seemed to be impressed with our maps, our course-setting and our organisation. Well done, Hawke's Bay!

For a number of Hawke's Bay members, the weekend would have been their first major orienteering event. This was an example of what orienteering as a sport can offer – the opportunity to get to really nice places, competition from others the same age and ability and friendships from others around the country. These competitions are not just for young (and no-so-young) athletes, but lots of ordinary people who just take part because they enjoy it. Think about travelling to another area for orienteering the next time an entry for a competition comes out!

A small group of club members formed the organising committee for this event, as there are some core jobs that need to be done. Thanks to Sharon Mardon (postal entries & banking), Ruth Vincent (entry form & programme), Lesley Sceats (personnel) and Murray Richardson (equipment) for willingly taking on these tasks and making things happen. Murray's job became particularly challenging over the weekend as he battled the elements and rescued tents, toilets and trailers.

The biggest jobs for an event like this are those of course planning and controlling. Hamish Goodwin, Geoff Morrison and Chris Howell were planners and Ken Holst and Max Kerrison, controllers, for our previous major event, 2005 NZ Champs, so they all had some idea of the commitment required. Jack Vincent and Duncan Morrison made an outstanding contribution with the sprint on Sunday evening. Thanks to you all for the venues that were chosen and the planning that went into the courses. Particular thanks must go to Mark McKenna from Rotorua who made three trips to HB to control the Whanawhana middle distance event and Max Kerrison, who travelled from Matata (find that on a map!) to control the Whanawhana long distance event.

One part of the event that I never get to is the start. For this event, I asked Alan Berry to co-ordinate the start area – people, equipment & system. We had very few problems with starts over the weekend, and I'm sure by Sunday morning everything was working like clock-work. Thanks to Alan and to everyone who worked on the start over the weekend for a job well done, despite the conditions – chilly, windy, (very windy) and swampy (it sounds as though Monday was a nice spot!).

Another huge contribution towards the event came from David Fisher – his on-line entry system worked superbly, his email worked over-time and his maps were magnificent. I'm sure all the planners will have tales of their battles with Condes that David patiently turned into paper prints for everyone to enjoy.

One bit of the weekend that didn't quite go to plan because of the wind was prize-givings. Unfortunately the PA system couldn't compete with the gusts and the crowds weren't exactly gathering in the breeze. Behind the scenes Catherine Howell did a fantastic job liaising with people from Central Districts & Wellington to find out what trophies and certificates were needed for these championship events. Catherine did a superb job over the weekend, completing certificates and attempting to get these to the recipients.

There is a huge amount of work that goes into a weekend like the Deco Double and there were lots of other club members who pitched in during the weekend to make it all happen. Thanks to everyone who worked on Set-ups & Pack-ups, Toilet towing, Registration, at the Finish, Control Collection & Control minding - well done!
